30 file for Mikesell's vacated board position

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A surprising total of 30 applicants have tossed in bids for the San Bernardino County supervisor seat left vacant by the resignation of Daniel Mikesell of Ontario.

Twenty candidates submitted applications in a last-day rush before Wednesday's 5 p.m. deadline.

Supervisors have indicated they will interview all the candidates in public next week, even though the list will obviously create problems. Board Chairman Dennis Hansberger said earlier that if the list was too long, it may be pared down before public interviews began.

The candidates include five present or former city councilmen, seven county employes, one city employe and other citizens well known around Mikesell's Second District.

Two former Ontario councilmen — Gus Ramos and Walter E. Stewart — have filed applications, along with Upland council member John E. McCarthy. Keith Brogan, former San Dimas councilman has tossed his hat in the ring along with Fontana councilman John G. Gilday, Jr.

Other public figures in the race include Calvin L. McElwain, steelworker union representative who Mikesell defeated in the 1974 election; Cucamonga Constable Robert Plamondon; Joseph Espinoza, executive director of the West End Council of Human Services; Anthony Malone, executive vice president of the Upland Chamber of Commerce; Charles T. "Ted" Vath, president of the Cucamonga County Water District; and John Bratta, Cucamonga teacher who was co-chairman of the recall drive recently against Mikesell.

Area officials who submitted applications include G. Michael Milhiser of Upland, assistant city administrator of Montclair; Ann Ivey, nursing administrator with the county health department; Andrew Easterbrook of Cucamonga, a park superintendent; Marjorie Mikels of Upland, a social service worker; Carlos Paniagua of Cucamonga, child support officer with the district attorney's office; Dennis Stout of Alta Loma, administrative assistant with the mental health department; and Mary Hartman of Fontana, county senior planner.

Others seeking the seat are Joseph Kamansky, real estate broker; Victor Lipmeyer, vice president for Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan; Leo Houghtaling, insurance adjustor; David Goodkin, program director of an alcohol recovery center; Peter McCormick, director of finances for a Glendora hospital; and Wallace Smith, appliance salesman from Upland.

Still more who applied include Cora Tomiska, Fontana housewife; Duane Slocum, industrial relations director for FMC Corporation in Pomona; Donald Hassis, sales manager for an Ontario printing firm; Robert Stokes, liquor store owner from Alta Loma; Peter Faust of Ontario, an energy conversion consultant; and Dalla Richins of Ontario, a retired real estate and insurance salesman.

Mikesell's successor will be chosen to complete the two years left in his fifth four-year term of office, which runs until December, 1978.

Mikesell, 66, resigned under pressure of a recall movement against him after he voted for a nearly 40 per cent salary boost for supervisors. The supervisor gave his reason for quitting as health. His district includes half of Ontario, Upland, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda and part of Fontana.

Supervisors have 30 days from the date of Mikesell's resignation to pick his successor, or they relinquish that right to Gov. Brown. Mikesell resigned on Sept. 28.

Ford gets needle, then gives it to newsmen

Swine flu program gets 'shot in arm'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assured by his physician that there is no danger, President Ford rolled up his shirtsleeve today and got a swine flu shot to demonstrate his confidence in the vaccine. He didn't wince.

"I didn't even know it," he said about how it feit. The White House physician, Dr. William Lukash, gave Ford the injection. The President was an initiator of the inocualtion program.

Ford was inoculated following the death of several elderly persons after they took swine flu shots. Officials of nine states suspended the public vaccination program, but three announced they were resuming immunizations after health officials said they found no evidence the vaccine was to blame for the deaths.

The President suggested that reporters and photographers line up for their swine flu shots as well. White House photographer David Kennerly was the only taker.

Lukash said Ford received one-half cubic centimeter of bivalent vaccine, meaning it contained immunization against both swine flu and the A-Victoria flu strain.

Ford got his shot with a regular needle instead of the guntype instrument used in mass inoculation programs. The shot went into his left arm.

"Should I wince?" he asked photographers as he took off his brown suit jacket, rolled up his sleeve and sat down on an examination table in Lukash's White House office.

Then to Lukash: "Are you sure you know how to do it?"

"I think I can get by," Lukash replied.

Afterward, Ford asked: "You mean it's all done? I didn't even know it."

"I got Ron Nessen about an hour ago," Lukash said, referring to Ford's press secretary.

The President joked about the Navy, where "they give you shots forever," and where a 270-pound champion wrestler once fainted in a lineup for inoculations.

"When he hit the floor, you could really feel it," the President said.

Asked by reporters if there is any danger to the President, Lukash said, "No. I have reviewed those incidents of deaths of elderly individuals with apparent heart disease. In my judgment, there are no clinical or laboratory evidence that the flu vaccine is connected with their deaths.

"I think it is a safe vaccine," Lukash said. "When you consider the potential hazard of a swine flu epidemic, I have to go back to the practical dictum: an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." Lukash said he plans no special monitoring of Ford after giving the shot.

The doctor also reported Mrs. Ford and other members of the Ford family will get their shots soon.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had planned to be inoculated at some point, but not necessarily today. He indicated the shot was scheduled for today because of the possibility that stories about the deaths might be damaging to the program.

3 states resume shots

By JEAN-CLAUDE BOUIS
Associated Press Writer

Three of nine states that suspended the swine flu inoculation program have decided to resume giving shots after tests revealed no evidence that the vaccine caused the deaths of elderly persons.

But several areas reported sharp declines in the number of persons showing up Wednesday for the free inoculations. The program is designed to reach up to 200 million Americans.

Officials in Louisiana and Illinois on Wednesday ordered the resumption of their programs. Vermont authorities said immunizations would resume on Friday.

At least 33 elderly persons in 16 states — most with a history of heart trouble — are reported to have died after receiving the inoculations.

That includes three persons in the Pittsburgh area whose deaths Monday prompted nine states to suspend the program a day later.

Federal and state officials stress that there is no known connection between the $135-million vaccination program — which began Oct. 1 — and the deaths.

Other states where the program was halted were Alaska, Maine, Michigan, New Mexico, Texas — except Houston — and Wisconsin. There also were suspensions of the program in some areas of other states.

At least 21 states have yet to begin inoculations.

Food and Drug Administration officials said Wednesday they found no evidence in preliminary tests that a batch of swine flu vaccine used at a Pittsburgh-area clinic was responsible for the deaths there.

The FDA said it had completed tests of 35 vials of vaccine gathered from the Pittsburgh clinic and found no trace of foreign materials. FDA officials said they would run more tests on the samples' purity and potency in about a week.

Spokesmen for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta repeated that "there is no evidence that the program should be curtailed in any way."

In New York City, health officials said 10,000 persons showed up on Wednesday, compared with 20,000 who were inoculated Tuesday.

Weather

Early morning fog followed by afternoon sunshine, slightly lower temperatures. High both days 87, low tonight 57. The high Wednesday was 91, and the overnight low was 57. Friday's sunrise 6:56, sunset 6:17.

Not safe, even in a dog house

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — A Lancaster man was burned seriously when the dog house in which he was sleeping caught fire, police reported.

Russell L. Pierce, 57, was listed in critical condition at University Hospital in Columbus.

Officer Jerry Seesholtz was on patrol early Wednesday when he heard two men yelling at Pierce to get out of the burning dog house.

Seesholtz said Pierce apparently had evicted the dog house's occupant from its home behind a tavern, crawled inside and lit a cigarette.

The officer tried to pull Pierce out, but had to call the fire department for help. Firefighters tore the roof off the dog house and freed Pierce.

Ford on TV tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will hold a televised news conference tonight to comment on closing of the Watergate special prosecutor's probe of his congressional campaign finances and to field questions over that and other issues, the White House announced.

There was no other immediate response from Ford to special prosecutor Charles Ruff's announcement that he is closing the books on the investigation of contributions to Ford's congressional campaign committees in Michigan.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the President requested that his 4:30 p.m. PDT news conference be carried live by television and radio networks.

Ford probably will make an opening statement that will focus on the conclusion of the probe, and then field questions, Nessen said.

Montclair man injured

Dense fog triggers freeway accidents

A Montclair man was injured early this morning in two related traffic accidents on the fogbound San Bernardino Freeway between Fourth Street and Vineyard Avenue in Ontario, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Daniel Hector Reyes, 18, of 9977 Mills Ave., Montclair suffered a neck injury when his car sideswiped another car and crashed into the center divider just east of Fourth Street. Reyes was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland for treatment.

Highway patrolmen said that Reyes lost control of his car when a truck pulling a back hoe and trailer began fishtailing in front of him. His compact car hit the side of a small sports car and swerved left in the eastbound lanes into the center divider.

The backhoe and truck in front of him continued fishtailing for another quarter mile until the truck skidded off the right lane of the freeway and the backhoe trailer overturned. The two accidents blocked the far right and far left lanes of the freeway in the heavy fog. Traffic began slowing and backing up nearly to Kellogg Hill.

Highway patrolmen assisted by Ontario police, fearing more accidents on the fog shrouded freeway, began running escort for groups of vehicles spaced about a mile apart.

The motorists slowly were guided past the accidents and through the heavy fog.

Several other non-injury accidents were reported on the freeway before 9 a.m.

In other disruptions caused by the dense fog, morning traffic in most of the valley was considerably slowed and takeoffs at the Ontario International Airport were delayed for a few minutes before sunrise.

The weatherman said the fog was caused by the influx of a deepening marine air that chased out a Santa Ana wind coming from the Mojave desert.

The fog lifted by midmorning and the National Weather Service predicted sunshine in the afternoon, both today and Friday, with temperatures in the upper 80s.

Smog-Line has been extended

Because of the continuing heavy smog, the Smog-Line health service of the Lung Association of Los Angeles County has been extended through Friday.

Data on smog levels from 13 monitoring stations throughout Los Angeles County are provided to Smog-Line hourly by the Southern California Air Pollution Control District.

In addition, Smog-Line also informs callers as to the best protective measures to take during health advisory levels and supplies literature on the cause and effects of air pollution. This material explains the components of air pollution and their effects on people with respiratory and heart conditions, aged persons and young children as well as the general public.

Ways to reduce air pollution are also being suggested to callers.

Callers seeking a doctor are given the names, addresses and phone numbers of three doctors in their areas. Information is also available regarding all 24-hour emergency hospital services throughout the county.

San Gabriel-Pomona Valley residents should call (213) 331-7913 for information.

The objectives of International Place are to stimulate cross-cultural sharing, to provide community resources to foreign students, to help students from abroad improve their use of English, to promote programs that will bring American and foreign students together, and to help foreign students with any problems.

Ford holds slight lead in state

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter are running neck and neck in California, according to the latest statewide survey of voting trends.

Carter, who led Ford by up to 20 percentage points before the Republican convention last August, now trails the President by one point, the California Poll reported today.

Based on a telephone survey of 1,230 voters one week ago, pollster Mervin Field said 44 per cent supported Ford and 43 per cent favored Carter. Four per cent said they planned to vote for other candidates, and 9 per cent were undecided.

California, of course, is an important prize in the November election because it carries the largest number of electoral votes.

Field said Ford has steadily improved his strength during the past two months partly because 81 per cent of the GOP is going to the President and just one in 10 Republicans say they'll vote for Carter.

"Carter does not command as high a level of voter support among Democrats in this state," said Field. "Only 63 per cent say they favor Carter and about one in five say they support Ford."

Field also said Carter's appeal is "below par" among unions, Catholic and Jewish communities which traditionally vote heavily Democratic.

Former senator Eugene McCarthy, a write-in candidate who got 2 per cent of the vote in the latest poll, also could hurt Carter's chances of winning a close race, said Field. Four out of five persons who say they will vote for McCarthy are Democrats.

Salary negotiations incomplete in Upland

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Teacher and classified employe salary negotiations are not complete in Upland School District with both groups now serving more than two months without a contract.

Trustees recently opened a public hearing on classified personnel salaries, but quickly ended it when no one from the audience offered to speak.

Non teaching personnel in the district have asked for a 15 per cent pay hike spread over two years. So far school board members have made no counter offer.

Earlier teachers asked for a 10 per cent raise. Board members last month countered with what they said was a 4 per cent salary and fringe benefit increase. But teacher representatives said after studying the proposal in detail, the board offer is closer to a one per cent pay hike.

In other action, acting Supt. Glenn Hardy said enrollment has grown 162 pupils in the 5,798 student district in the month since school opened this fall. Several new subdivisions within the district now completed and ready for occupancy, will swell that figure even more, Hardy said. Current classroom space should be able to handle the influx with possibly some overcrowding at Magnolia School, Hardy said.

Trustees also approved expenditure of $21,296 to reroof most of Pioneer Junior High School.

Hardy told trustees trash collection especially at Pioneer, was deficient creating odor and fly problems. Trustees agreed a strong letter should be written city officials and the trash collection company contracting with the city demanding correction of the deficiency or face court action.

Trustee William Rugg requested that at a future board meeting the district's lease arrangement on its district headquarters be discussed and a policy set on whether the district will continue such agreements or set a policy of outright ownership.

Next board meeting was set for 5:45 p.m., Oct. 19 at Upland Junior High School.

Claremont council votes to oppose Expo 81

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Changing its stand of two weeks ago, the Claremont City Council recently voted 4 to 1 to oppose Expo 81 and to "urge other city councils to adopt similar positions."

At its Sept. 28 meeting, the council by a 4 to 1 margin voted "not to support Expo 81 at this time."

Councilman Frank Hungerford has voted no each time, because he would rather not take any position.

The resolution drawn up by Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen states that the level of photochemical smog in the Upland-Fontana area is the highest in the Southern California air basin.

It also states that Expo 81 would greatly increase automobile traffic in this area and further overload the air with vehicular emissions.

"Excessive costs and time constraints make extremely unlikely the construction of a monorail or alternative transportation system to serve the fair and lessen the adverse air impact," the resolution continues.

"Temporary employment provided before and during Expo 81 is likely to create an influx of workers," the resolution goes on, "that this area would later be unable to support and would therefore result in a higher level of unemployment."

The resolution also points out that no environmental impact report has been made public to allow examination of the environmental and economic consequences of the project.

The Claremont resolution urges city councils in the affected areas to adopt similar positions and to notify President Ford, the governor, local congressmen, state legislators, and other appropriate officials.

The council added to the resolution the fact that it is against the use of the sales tax revenues to underwrite the world's fair.

The city received several letters all protesting the fair.

100 dead in fiery crash

SANTA CRUZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia began three days of national mourning today for more than 100 of its people killed when a chartered American cargo jet plowed through a street crowd and into a group of young soccer players at practice.

The three American crewmen of the Boeing 707 were also killed.

At least 100 Bolivians were hospitalized, a government spokesman said, "and there are injured who are hovering between life and death."

He said at least half the victims were children.

The spokesman reported 84 bodies, including those of the Americans, had been identified.

Officials said it was the worst aviation disaster in Bolivia's history. President Hugo Banzer flew to Santa Cruz, 350 miles southeast of La Paz, ordered three days of national mourning and said he would lead the funeral procession Thursday morning.

The four-engine jet was owned by Jet Power Inc. of Miami and was chartered to a Bolivian firm, Lloyd Aerero Boliviano. After delivering oil well machinery and other cargo from Houston, it had just taken off empty at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday from the airport on the edge of the city when it faltered.

"People at the scene said they heard an explosion before it fell and saw fire in one of the motors on the left wing," a Bolivian air force officer told reporters.

The plane clipped the tops off several big trees, demolished a corner of the Julio Gutierrez primary school, mowed down a line of people buying kerosene from a street vendor on Avenida de Ejercito, and crashed into a practice field outside the municipal soccer stadium where a number of people were watching two boys' teams scrimmaging.

The pupils at the school were home for lunch, but the caretaker, his wife and three children were in the building and were killed, an air force official said.

Another official said about 50 people were killed in the kerosene line, about 40 were killed on the soccer field, and eight boys were suffocated in a locker room of the stadium by smoke from the burning plane.

Debris and bodies were strewn across the soccer field.

"All those people were destroyed, burned, mutilated," a witness said. "It was like a scene from Dante. There were screams from the burned people."

Jet Power Inc. said the three crewmen were Capt. Charles Baldwin, a former airline pilot; first officer Lee Marsh; and flight engineer Leslie Bennett. All were from the Miami area.

Brainwash rift hits mind cult

NEW YORK (AP) — The arrest of two leaders of a Hare Krishna temple here may provide the first major test of charges by some parents that their children have been ensnared and brainwashed by religious cults, a prosecutor says.

Angus Murphy, 24, president of the group, and Harold Conley, 25, temple supervisor, pleaded innocent Wednesday in the state Supreme Court of Manhattan to charges of unlawfully imprisoning two members of the sect.

New York County Asst. Dist. Atty. Michael Schwed said a psychiatrist had examined the two "disciples" Tuesday and concluded they were "definitely brainwashed and under the mind control of the Hare Krishna sect."

Schwed said the grand jury concluded that the Hare Krishna leaders used a variety of brainwashing techniques to achieve mind control over their members and hold them in the group.

"This is the first time that anybody has ever alleged brainwashing in a criminal case," he explained. "So far as I know there is no statute in the United States that recognizes mind control specifically as a crime. What we're doing here, we're alleging it under another crime that we feel it might be able to fit under."

The two followers, Eric Shapiro, 22, son of a Boston physician, and Marylee Kreshower, 23, daughter of a Queens woman, were being held in lieu of $50,000 bond each as material witnesses in the case.

The pair were indicted on charges of unlawfully imprisoning a man and a woman in a move police say is a crackdown on "brainwashing".

D.B. man guilty of changing credit ratings

A Diamond Bar was among six persons found guilty of trying to change the poor credit ratings of individuals by the Credit Data Division of TRW, Inc., the nation's largest credit service.

He is Kenneth L. Stevenson, 39, who, along with Philip Kostoff, 31, Mission Viejo; Kostoff's brother, Paul, 35, Fountain Valley; Sean Shanahan, 35, Santa Ana; Ronald C. Rossi, 41, Fountain Valley; and John R. Dudos, 41, Garden Grove, were convicted on a conspiracy charge in Los Angeles federal court.

The jury returned the verdict Wednesday against the defendants who were accused of using a file clerk at TRW's Anaheim facility to alter records allowing persons with poor credit ratings to obtain credit and loans from banks.

The prosecution alleged that in some cases favorable information was added to files and in others, negative entries were removed.

Ford, Carter visits

'Big Apple' draws strategy

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

New York, with 41 electoral votes, is shaping up as a prime target of both major party presidential candidates as Jimmy Carter heads into the state on the heels of a two-day visit by President Ford.

Carter was flying to New York today after spending a quiet two days at his home in Plains, Ga. It was the beginning of a three-day trip in which the Democratic presidential nominee also will touch down in Detroit, Kansas City, Mo., and Cincinnati, Youngstown and Columbus, Ohio.

Ford returned home to Washington on Wednesday night after swinging through New York City's middle-class suburbs. There he voiced saber-edged criticism of Carter and promised that a Ford administration will show "compassion for the American taxpayer."

But there was potential trouble awaiting Ford in Washington.

It was reported that the special Watergate prosecutor will decide this week whether to look into claims that Ford discussed with members of Richard Nixon's White House ways of blocking an early investigation of the Watergate scandal.

And the Washington Post reported in today's editions that the Democratic National Committee is preparing to file a complaint with the Federal Election Commission about Ford's alleged use of aides and Cabinet members, who earn government salaries, for campaign duties.

Both vice presidential candidates, Democratic Sen. Walter Mondale and Republican Sen. Bob Dole, were heading for Houston, where they meet Friday night in a nationally televised debate.

Ford, at each stop on Wednesday, told his audiences that Carter wants to raise their taxes but that a Ford administration will cut taxes. At White Plains, N.Y., Ford said, "I say the middle-income taxpayer is already overtaxed, overburdened and under-represented."

And he signed a bill extending the federal revenue-sharing program for 3½ years at a projected cost of $25.5 billion. The money goes to state and local governments.

In a statement issued in Plains, Carter said, "I am pleased that Mr. Ford has decided to sign the bill." But, he said, "I do regret that so little else has been done by this administration to ease the plight of our cities and to help restore a true federalism in our system of government."

He said Ford had vetoed legislation that would have provided needed aid to cities and states.

Meanwhile, the Ford administration announced an increase in the production loan rates for wheat and feed grains after months of rejecting farmers' pleas for such increases.

There were indications the move could aid the Ford campaign in grain-growing states where the race with Carter is close, but Agriculture Department officials denied any political motivation.

Carter had issued a statement Monday calling for such increases to help farmers get loans they say they can't get in sufficient amounts under current market conditions. Acting Secretary of Agriculture John A. Knebel denied that the raises were "in response" to Carter's plea.

Nobel winners

3 Americans draw honors

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two American medical researchers and an American economist were named today as winners of 1976 Nobel Prizes in medicine and economics.

The Swedish Royal Academy of Science awarded the economics prize to Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, dean of American conservative economists. The 64-year-old native of Brooklyn also writes a weekly column for Newsweek magazine.

The Royal Caroline Institute announced that the medicine prize was awarded to Prof. Baruch S. Blumberg of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and Prof. D. Carleton Gajdusek of the National Institute for Neurological Diseases at Bethesda, Md., "for their discoveries concerning new mechanisms for the origin and dissemination of infectious diseases."

The economics prize, a latecomer to the Nobel awards, was established by the Swedish Central Bank in 1968 to mark its 200th anniversary, and Americans have now won or shared in six of the eight awards.

The other five Nobel Prizes — in medicine, physics, chemistry, literature and peace — were established by the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite, and have been given since 1901 from the income from a $9 million fund he established.

All the prizes this year carry a cash award of 681,000 Swedish kronor, or $160,000 at the current rate of exchange.

Friedman was honored "for his achievements in the fields of consumption analysis, monetary history and theory and for his demonstration of the complexity of stabilization policy," the Swedish Royal Academy of Science said.

Sources at the Royal Academy said the award to Friedman followed an unprecedented and sometimes heated debate, centered primarily over his political activity as adviser to conservative politicians and his journalism. Some academy members also reportedly felt his economic judgments were insufficiently scientific.

Robber foiled in holdup attempt

A doughnut shop employe refused to surrender the shop's cash to a would-be robber in Pomona Wednesday night despite his threat to kill her.

The victim, Linda Faulker, 19, told the armed man that the money was not hers to give him after he demanded cash at Winchell's Donut House at 773 N. Indian Hill Blvd. The man, black and about 21 years old, showed a small pistol and asked the victim, "Do you want to die?" Still she refused to give up the money and the man fled as a customer entered.

The man was six feet tall and slim. He wore a dark, knit cap, army-style jacket and dark trousers.

Pistols taken

A San Dimas man has reported the theft of several pistols from his home at 308 Mateo St., sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, Jose C. Miramontes, 35, said the theft occurred last Monday between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Taken were a .45-caliber automatic, two .38-caliber revolvers and a .357-caliber revolver. The pistols were valued at $725.

Shotgun blast

An employe of a nearby business in Pomona fired one shotgun blast into the air in an effort to stop a young man who slugged a drive-in dairy worker in a robbery attempt Wednesday night.

The incident occurred at the Shady Grove Dairy at 2518 N. Towne Ave. where the victim, Patrick W. Kingrey, 20, was confronted by a man holding a rifle. He said that at first he thought the man was kidding, but realized he was not when he shoved the muzzle of the rifle into his stomach and hit him on the ear with it. When a second employe entered, the gunman fled across a field nearby. Kingrey went next door to a another shop and told an employe there, Dennis L. Kent, 25, of the incident and Kent grabbed the shotgun and fired after ordering the would-be robber, and several others who had joined him outside, to halt. All kept running, however.

The armed man was described as being about 20, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing 170 pounds. He wore a light-brown trench coat under which he carried the rifle.

County mayor backed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county Economy and Efficiency Commission has reaffirmed its support for a county mayor plan. The commission reiterated its concern over the fact that a five-man board of supervisors now runs the county.

"There are few or no instances of any army being commanded by five generals all sharing the same authority, a warship being commanded by five captains or corporation being directed by five presidents," said a commision report released Wednesday.

The commission said the county mayor plan would provide a system of checks and balances, in which the executive authority of the mayor would be balanced by the legislative powers of the supervisors.

Victim paralyzed by fear

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 69-year-old woman—apparently paralyzed by fear — was too terrified to try an escape for as long as five days after being attacked by robbers in her Hollywood Hills home, authorities say.

Police said they found Fey Blodgett in her home on Wednesday, sitting in a chair with her hands tied behind her back. But she was not bound to the chair, and could have escaped anytime after the attack, they said.

She was taken to Cedars Sinai Medical Center where she was treated for dehydration and injuries apparently caused by the beating, police said. Police said Mrs. Blodgett was unable to say exactly how long she had been in the house after the attack but they estimate it was three to five days.

Friends may call at Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona today from 4 to 9 p.m.

Cold front produces showers

By The Associated Press

A cold front that became active when it reached the Northeast produced showers and thunder showers over the Great Lakes region and the north Atlantic states before ending early today.

Thunderstorm gusts reached 62 miles an hour at Elmira, N.Y.; 58 miles an hour at Johnstown, Pa.; and 56 miles an hour at Watertown, N.Y. Small hail fell in parts of northern Michigan, but rainfalls in the area were light in the six-hour period ending at 2 a.m. EDT today.

Precipitation elsewhere consisted of only a few light showers over the southern parts of Arizona and New Mexico, and extreme western Texas.

A sharp change in the weather was predicted for the Northwestern part of the nation today as a strong cold front from Canada barreling into the area with gusty winds. In Montana, winds have gusted to 56 miles per hour at Livingston, while winds reached 45 miles per hour at Havre.

Showers, with snow in the higher elevations, were forecast for the northern Rockies and northwestern Plains today, with temperatures falling into the 20s and lower 30s by night.

Outside of the shower areas, the only other cloudy part of the country overnight was along the Pacific coast, where some dense fog was forming. Overnight skies across the remainder of the United States ranged from clear to partly cloudy.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 76 at Kay West, Fla., and Yuma, Ariz., to 24 at Craig, Colo.

The forecast for today calls for scattered showers with mostly cloudy skies and colder temperatures over Montana east of the continental divide, western North Dakota, New England and northeastern New York. A few snow flurries may be seen over northern New England and northeast New York. Elsewhere, skies will be sunny or fair. Cooler weather will spread over most of the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley into western New York. It will continue rather cool from the southern Rockies through most of Texas and southeast Arizona, and it will be mild in the rest of the nation.

DAME EDITH EVANS

Dame Edith dies at 88

LONDON (AP) — Dame Edith Evans, the English actress whose career spanned more than six decades on the stage and screen, died at her country home today after a short illness, her lawyers announced. She was 88.

Dame Edith made her first professional stage appearance in 1912 in London's Covent Garden as Cressida in Shakespeare's "Troilus and Cressida" and embarked on a career that covered the whole range of dramatic acting, from Shakespearean tragedy to modern comedy.

"I seem to have an awful lot of people inside me," she once said.

Dame Edith rose from obscurity as a milliner's apprentice to one of the grand dames of the acting profession.

"I never wanted to be on the stage," she said. "But once I was there I knew that's where I belonged."

After years of distinguished stage performances in plays by George Bernard Shaw, Anton Chekhov and Shakespeare, the London-born actress began — at age 60 — a new career as a film star.

Her screen debut was in 1948, in "The Queen of Spades," but the film role that brought her the most critical acclaim internationally was as a frail, halfcrazed old woman in "The Whisperers," released in 1967 when she was 79.

That role as a lonely old lady dreaming in her crumbling hovel of an imaginary glorious past swept a series of international "best actress" awards. She won the Silver Bear at the Berlin Film Festival, the Golden Globe in Hollywood and the New York Film Critics Award.

At home, she won the British Film Academy Award and the Variety Club of Great Britain Award.

A spokesman for Dame Edith's lawyers said she died at her country home in Goudhurst, in Kent County about 40 miles southeast of London. He said death was attributed to complications following a bad cold.

Dame Edith was perhaps best remembered in Britain for her interpretation of Lady Bracknell in the stage and film versions of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Two words from that role — "a handbag" — are indelibly traced on the minds of many British film and theater goers. Lady Bracknell spoke those words in incredulous horror after John Worthing confessed he had been found as a baby in a handbag.

The actress was made a Dame Commander of the British Empire in 1946 for her services to the theater.

Even in her 80s, Dame Edith made an occasional stage or radio appearance.

In 1973 and 1974 she appeared in a show called "Edith Evans ... and Friends," in which she read poems and speeches from plays associated with her long career. Earlier this year a 45-minute performance before a selected audience was broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corp.

She announced then that it would be her last performance. She was 88 and had suffered a heart attack that restricted her vocal power and range. She retired to her Tudor cottage in Goudhurst.

At the age of 81 Dame Edith was asked the secret of her long and active life. "I've never let the years touch me," she replied. "I just go on living, eat the same food, go to the same dressmaker, and I have, I suppose, more responsibility."

Braude named

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Tom Bradley has appointed City Councilman Marvin Braude to a newly-created air pollution control agency that will involve four Southern California counties.

Braude, who was appointed Wednesday, will represent Los Angeles on the 10-member governing board, which will supplant the existing Southern California Air Pollution Control District.

The board is to draft a regional air quality management statement by Jan. 31, 1979.

3 named to commissions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three new municipal commissioners have been appointed and are awaiting City Council approval before taking over their posts.

The appointments, announced by Mayor Tom Bradley on Wednesday, were:

Daniel P. Garcia, an attorney and hearing examiner for the Los Angeles Board of Police Commisioners, to the Planning Commission; William R. Montalvo, an investment consultant, to the Board of Parking Commissioners, and Salvador J. Perrotta, public relations director for Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO named to the Board of Environmental Quality Commissioners.

Browne

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Funeral services were pending for Dudley E. Browne, retired chief financial officer of Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Browne, who would have been 64 on Thursday, died Tuesday.

He became controller of Lockheed in 1942 at the age of 29 and was a senior vice president at the time of his retirement in 1971.

Eberhard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Private funeral services are scheduled for Claire V. Eberhard, former chief trial deputy and head of the criminal division of the city attorney's office, has died at the age of 82.

Eberhard, who died Tuesday, served 18 years as a member of the Los Angeles Selective Service Board.

Hogoboom appointed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William P. Hogoboom was unopposed for election as presiding judge of the Los Angeles County Superior Court and will take over that post Jan. 1, presiding judge Robert A. Weeks says. Hogoboom is currently assistant presiding judge.

Nominations closed Wednesday and Hogoboom's name was the only one submitted.

Hogoboom, 57, of Pasadena, was formerly the supervisor of the Juvenile Court.

Death penalty given

A Pomona woman was sentenced to death Tuesday in the robbery, slaying and dismemberment of a Pomona man who had agreed to give her and two companions a ride to Oklahoma during the Christmas holidays last year.

The woman, Marie Elaine Matzka, 22, of 2409 Chanslor Ave., was sentenced by Riverside County Superior Court Judge Warren Slaughter. She became the first woman to receive the death penalty in Riverside County since the state's new capital punishment law went into effect in 1975.

A second suspect in the slaying, Richard Ray Taylor, 23, of 1400 S. Reservoir St., Pomona, presently is being tried. The third person involved, a 15-year-old Pomona youth, remains in the custody of Riverside County juvenile authorities.

The victim, Ronald Lee Hunziker, 25, was robbed and shot to death in the desert near Blythe. His body was not discovered until April. The three suspects subsequently were arrested.

The Pomona woman was convicted two weeks ago at the close of a lengthy trial before a jury which then recommended the death penalty. Slaughter formally sentenced her Tuesday.

The same penalty is being sought against Taylor.

BARBRA MEETS MAYOR — Mayor Tom Bradley this week presented a plaque from the city to singer Barbra Streisand at a fashion review honoring the Los Angeles fashion industry. The 1977 spring fashions were previewed.

$500 to MSAC

'Pitch-in' honors, cash set as local students clean up

Mt. San Antonio College has won a $500 award for taking a top place in the annual national College "Pitch-In Week" held last April under the sponsorship of Anheuser-Busch and the National Broadcasting Co.

More than 400 colleges throughout the nation participated in the contest to see whose students could do the best job of cleanup to help the nation's ecology program.

The MSAC students won a first place in the western region, according to Larry Maloney, Anheuser-Busch district sales manager.

Students at the community college in Walnut undertook several projects last spring. They helped in a reforestation program at Mt. Baldy, they built a permanent recycling center on campus to collect aluminum, glass and newspapers, and they helped replant the college's open forum area where students gather to hear lecturers.

The Foothill Beverage Co. of Pomona, distributor for the beer company, coordinated and supervised the MSAC project.

'Black palace'

'Lecumberri' ordered shut

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government has closed Lecumberri, known as the "black palace" because of its reputation as a place for murder, cruelty, overcrowded cells, rats and bugs.

The inmates of the 75-year-old prison — scene of the assassinations of a president and vice president 65 years ago — have been transferred to new facilities that look like a small college campus, except for high, stone walls.

The two new prisons in Mexico City are part of a program by an assistant secretary of the interior, Sergio Garcia Ramirez. The prisons, which cost $17 million each and now house about 50 Americans among the prisoners, are among the most modern in the world, and officials in them stressed rehabilitation and dignity for the inmates.

Under a prison reform plan launched in 1971, the government plans to build two more similar prisons before the end of the decade. About 560 Americans are in prisons and jails throughout Mexico, most of them confined on drug charges.

"I've never seen anything like this," said Bill Clary, chief pshyciatric consultant to the U.S. federal prison at Springfield, Mo., on a recent tour of one of the new prisons. "It looks like the Maria-Isabel," a luxury hotel in the capital.

Each of a dozen stone, brick and glass confinement buildings is surrounded by flowers and shrubs. The buildings are connected by shrub-lined, covered walkways.

All guards wear gray slacks, dark blue blazers, light blue shirts and maroon ties. They do not carry weapons.

Cell doors are unlocked at 6 a.m. each day. Prisoners can spend the day lounging in bunks, wandering about the grassy grounds, playing tennis or handball, watching television at the mess hall, working in the gardens or prison laundry for pay or learning a trade in daily classes at the machine shop, carpentry shop or other training schools.

Classes in English and Spanish are also available.

Unlike some U.S. prisons where inmates are ushered into a room to talk with visitors through a mesh-wire screen, prisoners at the new Mexico City prisons are allowed to greet visitors and receive food packages in special rooms with small tables or even picnic on the lawns.

At the Reclusorio Norte, the northern prison in Mexico City, there is a three-story attractively decorated modern building, with draperies, plants and paintings. It is where the prisoners are allowed to have overnight conjugal visits once each week in private bedrooms and with girl friends or wives.

Not far away is a playground where a couples can play on swings, slides and other equipment while parents visit together.

"It's like a country club here," said one American, William Myers, 51, of Florida. "They let me do anything I want to here except go outside."

Myers is charged in Tampa, Fla., with conspiracy to import drugs into the United States. He jumped $250,000 bail in Tampa and fled to Mexico. He was convicted of illegal entry into Mexico and sentenced to two years in prison.

Myers says that when arrested in May of 1975 he expected to find prison conditions like those in some movies and novels dealing with Mexico. His fears were not dispelled when he spent eight days in a holding cell at the attorney general's headquarters in downtown Mexico City.

"They took all my clothes except those I was wearing," Myers said. "The cell had concrete walls and a concrete floor and I had to sleep in a concrete slab. There weren't any bedcovers and I was cold as a frog in there."

"Oh, they had rats and bugs all over the place," Myers said. "It was pretty crowded there. Sometimes they had 10 people in a 10-foot by 12-foot cell."

At the black palace, he added, "there was nothing but stone walls and bars to look at. Here you've got the open sky and hills and you can walk around."

New suite opened

Pomona Valley Community Hospital has opened a suite of rooms near its surgery department so that families of patients may wait in comfort and privacy.

Located directly across from the elevators on the third floor adjacent to the surgery wing, the suite has been decorated in muted colors with carpeting, drapes, television, coffee and groupings of comfortable sofas and chairs.

Pomona Valley Community Hospital Auxiliary members will serve as volunteers to assist families while they await the outcome of surgery.

The suite of rooms will be available for conferences between doctors and the families of patients, a spokesman said.

Water companies rated

Customers come in second

By Bernard Hurwitz
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An auditing firm's study of six water subsidiaries of Citizens Uiitities Co. of California says they handle their finances better than they treat their customers.

The management study — whose unspecified cost is to be borne by some 8,000 customers of the firms — was conducted by Arthur Young and Co. in compliance with orders by Robert Batinovich, a member of the state Public Utilities Commission.

It will be incorporated in the record at PUC hearings next month on applications to increase rates for water service.

The subsidiaries involved are Jackson Water Works, Inc., serving that city and part of Amador County; Larkfield Water Co, which services that area and north of Santa Rosa; North Los Altos Water Co. serving parts of Los Altos and Mountain View; Guerneville Water Co., serving the Russian River area in Sonoma County; Inverness Water Co. in northern Marin County and the Montara Water District, serving the Montara-Moss Beach area.

The Citizens administrative office is in Stamford, Conn.

The study said it found the Stamford headquarters had an extensive office procedures manual but no comparable guidelines for operations of local utilities. Until a year ago, it added, preventative maintenance was left to the judgment of local district managers and since then has been limited to pump motors.

The PUC was told the basic accounting system and controls are sound and operate properly.

But, reporting on customer relations, the study said it found inconsistencies in complaint recording practices among utilities. Response varied from immediate to as much as four or five days for different types of problems

The report said a lot of operating and financial information was sent to Stamford, but there was little or no direct communication to the utilities.

It said in one instance a district manager learned about a rate increase application by reading about it in a newspaper and that improvement projects had been started without knowledge of local personnel. It added no training programs were observed for field personnel and there had been a high turnover of service personnel.

The study noted a tendency to hire such personnel without previous experience in a water utility.

It said overall management reporting and decision making was highly structured and closely followed with strong control and reporting upward.

On plant and maintainence, the study found there is little direct control of operating activities.

Of the Jackson system, the report said critically needed improvements have been made, but the system may require replacement of aging mains. Guerneville's plant was described as one "extremely difficult" to operate and maintain, being in rugged terrain with water quality difficult to control.

Larkfield was said to be in good condition, as was North Los Altos. Montara, the report said, had some old mains in poor condition and there were leak problems. Most complaints this year related to water outages in March and April. Inverness was reported to have an old system except for a new treatment facility with extensive leak repair noted.

A customer survey showed they do not believe water service is as good as their other utility services. About 61 per cent said water service was satisfactory, good or excellent, and more than 36 per cent listed it poor or very poor.

"More than two thirds — 69 per cent — of the customers are unwilling to pay any more for perfect water; 93 per cent of the customers are unwilling to pay twice as much for perfect water as they now pay," said the study.

The companies also got a 44 per cent rating for satsficatory, good or excellent resonse, while 22 percent rated it poor and 34 per cent had no opinion.

Voter, 102, still active

PLEASANT GROVE, Utah (AP) — William M. Hone, who will be 102 two days after the nation chooses its next president, says he hasn't missed voting in an election since 1895.

"I wasn't even a mature man," said Hone of the first time he cast a ballot. "I growed two inches after I was 21."

He said he doesn't hear as well as he used to and the campaign issues aren't as clear as they once were. But Hone said he still takes an active interest in politics.

"I vote for the man," said Hone, adding his favorite presidents were Teddy Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

New paper inked for seniors

Starting this month, citizens in San Dimas will begin seeing a new newspaper being circulated around town.

It's called the Silver Times and is written for and about the city's senior citizens.

The monthly newsletter is written and edited by Carolyn St. Claire in cooperation with the city of San Dimas. It will be available at a number of locations including City Hall, the Senior Citizens' Center, banks, doctors' offices and commercial establishments in the city.

Articles in the first issue include swine flu clinic information, recreational and social activities that might be of interest to senior citizens, special discount information and miscellaneous articles.

Any individual or senior citizens group with news or announcements they would like to see appear are asked to write C. St. Claire at 1617 Calle Ciervos, San Dimas, or call Mrs. Pat Gore at San Dimas City Hall. News must be in by the 15th day of each month in order to appear in the following issue.

POOR GUMBO — "Gumbo III," current mascot of the New Orleans Saints ran off recently when things were going poorly for the team and found some solace in the loving arms of this pretty spectator. Two St. Bernards preceded Gumbo as the team mascot, but one died and the other was lost when it ran off.

West Valley judge named

JACOB JAGER

Jacob Jager, a 42-year-old San Bernardino County Superior Court Commissioner from Upland, has been appointed a judge of the West Valley Municipal Court.

The appointment by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is effective immediately and Judge Jager took over his new post in Ontario this morning.

He said he was "elated" with the appointment.

Judge Jager is a former partner in the law firm of Moran, Nuss and Jager of Pomona. He was named commissioner in January, 1975.

In his new appointment, he fills the vacancy left by the appointment of William Pitt Hyde to Superior Court. The promotion also raises Jager's salary from $36,874 to $45,235.

The new judge is a graduate of Chino High School. He also attended Mt. San Antonio, Citrus and San Bernardino Valley colleges before getting his law degree from La Salle Extension University in 1970.

He served as a Chino police officer and as a supervising special investigator for the California Department of Alcohol Beverage Control.

Red Cross to train applicants in first aid

The Pomona Red Cross can still accept a limited number of applicants in its Multi-Media First Aid training class Saturday.

The classes, held on the third Saturday of each month from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., are usually booked far in advance, according to an instructor.

Cost for the workbook and materials is $6. Instructors will be Dave Amdahl and George Fullerton; authorized American Red Cross Multi-Media First Aid instructors.

Persons interested in attending the class are asked to call Fran Tucker at the Red Cross office, 622-1348, on Friday and reserve a place.

Opulent hotel due in Beverly Hills

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If the hotel shines your shoes overnight and the complimentary breakfast is croissants and cafe au lait, you're in Europe — right?

Not necessarily — you may be in L'Ermitage, the newest multimillion-dollar entry in the hotly competitive hotel business in opulent Beverly Hills.

L'eurmitage, which opens Friday, is descrided by developer Sevryn Ashkenazy as a "hotel de grande classe, designed for the knowledgable visitor who appreciates the amenities of fine continental hostelries."

Amenities there are. Each of the 115 suites has a sunken living room area, balcony or patio, wet bar, gas log fireplace and custom-made furniture. The smallest is 725 square feet, with the rest ranging up in size to the Presidential Suite, a two-story layout of 2,500 square feet.

Guests won't use keys to enter their rooms — they will be given individual combinations for their electronically controlled doors when they check in. And pranksters won't flip over a honeymooning couple's "Do Not Disturb" sign to the "Please Make Up This Room" sign — maids will also be summoned electronically. In the event of a power failure, L'Ermitage will simply switch over to its own generator "so the guests won't be disturbed," explains Ashkenazy.

All of this doesn't come cheap. Rates at L'Ermitage start at $60 a day and go up to $200. However, Ashkenazy, a 40-year-old builder and developer who has extensive real estate holding here, thinks people will pay the price.

"This hotel will be more successful in America than it would in any other place because America has more affluent people," he says. "And people who have traveled in Europe have come to like this sort of elegance."

L'Ermitage faces stiff competition from other plush hotels like the Beverly Hills, where spokesman Mal Sibley says "there's a waiting list every day," and the Beverly Wilshire, host to the Jimmy Carters, Warren Beatty and King Hussein of Jordan, among others. But Ashkenazy, whose family's collection of rare will grace the entrance of L'Ermitage, thinks competing for the well-heeled traveler is the best way to go.

"Everyone tried to build a better Holiday Inn and Motel 6 — smaller rooms, cheaper rooms," he says. "But it seems to me that there has been enough of that. The Beverly Hills, the Beverly Wilshire — they all have high occupancy rates. There might be a good reason for that."

Ashkenazy doesn't plan to lose money. But the hotel also reflects something of the man himself.

"L'Ermitage corresponds with my Russian and French background," he explains. "It was named after the former winter palace of Catherine the Great in St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) which is now the largest museum in the world. This was a personal decision to build something that would be reminiscent of my youth, my roots."

IT DOESN'T COME CHEAP — Developer Sevryn Ashkenazy is shown in a room at L'Ermitage.

Ocean mining approval seen

SEATTLE (AP) — Congress will give the green light to commercial ocean mining at next year's session, Rep. Joel Pritchard has told a seminar of the National Ocean Industries Association.

Meanwhile, in an unrelated session, the Pacific Regional Fishery Management Council elected officers Tuesday but delayed selection of a permanent headquarters.

The Washington Republican said Tuesday he expects legislation to pass one house of Congress this spring to grant U. S. firms assurance against international expropriation of any ocean mining operations they start.

Congress then will pause to give next spring's Law of the Sea Conference one final chance to reach international agreement on seabed mining, Pritchard said.

If the nations fail to reach agreement, the other house of Congress will complete action on a bill that will clear the way for commercial mining.

Pritchard said nickel and other metals in nodules on the ocean floor are vital to the United States and the nation cannot afford to wait much longer for decisions from a slow-paced Sea Law conference.

The National Ocean Industries Association is a Washington, D. C., representative for offshore and ocean-oriented industries.

The Pacific fisheries council is one of eight formed to direct fisheries within the federal government's new 200-mile jurisdiction and outside the states' three-mile jurisdiction.

John McKean was elected chairman at the organizational meeting while E. Charles Fullerton was named vice-chairman. McKean is the recently retired director of the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. Fullerton directs the California Department of Fish and Game.

Number of fulltime state employes drops

SACRAMENTO (AP) — During Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s first year and a half in office, the number of fulltime state employes declined by 1,766 in California.

In the same period of time, part-time employes, who work less than a 40-hour week, rose by 3,996 to 21,705, State Personnel Board records show.

These figures are in sharp contrast to the administration of Brown's father, Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, whose two terms ended in 1966.

In Brown Sr.'s terms, the fulltime employe ranks swelled from 70,945 to 102,461. Eight years later when Brown Jr. entered office after Republican Ronald Reagan, the board counted 108,393 fulltime workers. That figure is now 106,627.

Brown Jr., as everyone notes, is a man very different from his father. His attitude toward growth for the sake of growth is negative, and he talks often about why government is forced to grow.

"People have flocked into the urban centers. That requires an expansion of government, because there are more people living closer together with less family ties, resulting in government providing those services without which civilizations don't endure," Brown said in an interview earlier this year.

These State Personnel Board figures do not include one of the biggest additions to state employe ranks since Brown took office — an addition he endorsed and fought for.

That is the Agricultural Labor Relations Board, which started hiring employes again July 1 after a legislative funding fight that shut the board down last spring.

The board, which oversees secret ballot elections for farm workers, now has a staff of 198, including attorneys, field investigators and board and administration staff.

In his first 18 months, Brown also backed some big staff cuts. The most notable was a 2,653-person cut in the Department of Transportation. Many of those people were placed in other state jobs.

"Gov. Brown has made it very clear to his department directors that any new programs that involve hiring of new personnel or expenditure of new monies must be funded out of savings resulting from the termination of old programs," said Gray Davis, Brown's top aide.

Here are some State Personnel Board data on major shifts in the state work force in Brown's 18 months in office.

OFFICE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE PLANNING: Brown said the office, which screens local applications for federal funds, was a "Pretzel palace" of paper pushers. Davis said it has been cut from 329 to 50.

—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE: The 148-person department was cut out as unneeded. But its biggest section, the 129-person California Museum of Science and Industry, still operates as part of the Agriculture and Services Agency.

—TRANSPORTATION: The department dropped by 2,653. But many of these people were placed in other state jobs. Brown said the push to build highways had declined.

—BENEFIT PAYMENTS: This department, which administers welfare payments, showed a rise of 500 employes. State officials say this was caused in large part by increased unemployment.

—MOTOR VEHICLES: The Department of Motor Vehicles increased by 275. State officials attribute that growth to additional investigators in the dealer compliance area, more multilingual staff and the new year round registration staff.

—PRISONS: The Department of Corrections dropped 195, mirroring the drop in state inmate population in this time, state officials said.

—FRANCHISE TAX BOARD: The board added 326. Some of the new employes are policing the 1974 Political Reform Act. Others are auditing state income tax returns with an eye toward saving the state more money.

—HEALTH: The department dropped 754 employes — mainly because officials found state hospitals had been staffed beyond their budgeted amount.

—EMPLOYMENT: The Employment Development Department added 265 persons. Much of that was prompted by increased unemployment pressures, state officials say.

—HIGHWAY PATROL: This agency dropped by 343 persons. The main reason for the drop was the end of the auto safety inspection program, which Brown opposed as an unwarranted expenditure.

—WATER: The Water Resources Control Board increased by 120 to staff clean water projects and to expand the water rights division. The Department of Water Resources, which is winding down its major building program, was reduced by 70 employes.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS: The Department added 117. State officials said two major increases were more referees to hearqorkmen's compensation claims and staff to investigate fair employment complaints.

In New South

Candidacy of Carter breeds fight

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

Beneath the contest between Jimmy Carter and President Ford in the South is another struggle. It may determine the political direction of the New South and the chances for a new Republican majority.

By nominating a native Southerner for president, the Democrats have done two things crucial to the future of the region:

—They have ended a long free ride for Republicans in the South in national elections.

—And they have made it possible for many Southern Democrats to stop doing their own thing at the local level while ignoring the party's presidential ticket.

Ever since the Dixiecrats bolted the party in 1948, the once Solid South has been eroding for the Democrats. Dwight Eisenhower made inroads in 1952 and 1956, and Richard Nixon held some of the new ground in 1960. Barry Goldwater took five Southern states in 1964 despite a Texan heading the Democratic ticket.

In 1968 only Texas stayed with the Democrats. What George Wallace didn't win with his third party bid, Nixon got. And in 1972 Nixon took them all.

The split began over civil rights, but it spread to other issues on which Southern voters generally concluded that the Republican presidential nominees were more conservative, and therefore closer to their own traditions, than the national Democratic party.

Local Democrats, meanwhile, most of them just as conservative as any Republican, simply ignored the national party, or even denounced it while campaigning back home. They ran on their own strength and voting habits older than the Civil War.

At the same time they continued to call themselves Democrats, keeping their seniority in Congress and other benefits of national party support. They had the best of both worlds.

But a couple of things happened which threatened this comfortable accommodation. For one thing, once Southerners had dared to vote against the party of their fathers at one level, it was an easier step to the next. Southern districts began sending republicans to Congress for the first time since Reconstruction.

Sensing a trend, some newcomers decided to enter politics under the new banner, and some lifelong Democrats, like Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who had first defected as Dixiecrats, completed the switch and became Republicans.

But just as the conservative mood of the Old South was leading it to what was seen as the more conservative party, the old patterns were being broken by the 1965 voting rights act, which brought thousands of new black voters onto the rolls.

Segregationists were no longer automatically winning elections. Blacks began to be elected to public office. And white New South politicians, able to draw from both constituencies, began to appear, men like Carter in Georgia, Reubin Askew in Florida, Dale Bumpers in Arkansas, Wendell Ford in Kentucky.

Now, one of the New Southerners is heading the Democratic ballot.

"The South sees him the kind of presidential nominee they have been asking the Democrats for," said an early Carter backer. "For the first time they have a candidate who is nationally acceptable and whom they can accept and identify with."

"Most local candidates for the first time are proud to have the national ticket tied to their campaigns," said David Dunn, Carter's Florida campaign coordinator.

If Carter makes the national Democratic party respectable to Southern voters, the main advantage the Republicans had in the South will be wiped out. And most of them know it. Ford workers say they are surprised at the way Ronald Reagan's conservative Republican backers are pitching in to save the Ford campaign in Dixie.

The kind of Southerners who are sticking with the GOP appear to be in large measure those who would have been Republicans all along if they had lived in another part of the country — businessmen, professionals, white collar workers, suburbanites.

This is a growing class in the South and could provide a reasonable base for a growing Republican party no matter who wins the presidency — if the GOP can adapt its approach and cultivate these voters.

On the other hand, one of the things which has stumped Ford's strategists is the way the rural South and the growing urban industrial working class is sticking with Carter.

Despite their conservative bent on social issues, these people are closely affected by the basic economic issues which have always been the strength of the Democratic party. Recession and inflation influence them just as much as voters anywhere else.

That basic Carter strength has not been lost on the Democrats of the old school. While Ford is picking up some Democratic support in the South, he is not getting it in the measure that Nixon, Goldwater, and Eisenhower did. There are people lining up behind Carter who haven't backed the national ticket in two or three decades.

If this means embracing a liberalized New South in the person of Jimmy Carter, most of them seem willing to do it. This was graphically illustrated when Sens. James Eastland and John Stennis accompanied Carter to Mississippi for a public annointing. Even Ross Barnett, who was perhaps the most famous of Mississippi's segregationist governors, is on Carter's steering committee in the state.

Massage parlors ordered to close

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Two of seven Pomona massage parlors investigated under the state's "Red Light Abatement" law have been ordered permanently closed by Pomona Superior Court Judge Paul Egly.

The five other massage parlors face the same likelihood.

Judge Egly Tuesday issued permanent injunctions against Cleo's Health Salon No. 1, located at 400 N. Gibbs St., and Cleo's Health Salon No. 2, located at 956 N. Garey Ave.

The permanent injunctions were ordered after the owner-operator of the businesses, Tommie Whitlock, stipulated, or conceded, that the allegations made by the city against the businesses were true.

Those allegations were in the form of tape recordings gathered during a secret four-month investigation by Pomona undercover police that showed acts of prostitution were available to customers of the massage parlors upon request.

The injunctions become effective immediately, and the buildings are already vacant, according to Det. Kurt Longfellow.

Under the red light abatement law, which is a civil not criminal proceeding, the city may seek repayment for the cost of the investigation by selling furnishing or other movable property from the businesses.

If such property does not cover the cost of the investigation, the city could conceivably seek payment from the property owner — even though the property owner was not necessarily involved in the operation of the business.

In the case of Cleo's No. 1 that would be the Bank of America. In the case of Cleo's No. 2 it would be Jack G. Booth.

Other massage parlors targeted under the same investigation, and the date of their scheduled court appearance are:

Sultan's Adult Talk Center, located at 705 N. Garey Ave., scheduled today. The business operator and property owner is Lavonne Grimes under the name Lyn Scott Corp., said police.

Pomona Valley Health Spa, located at 1567 N. Orange Grove Ave., to appear Tuesday. Police identified the business and property owner as Herschel Jennings and his family-owned Wilkay Corp.

Swedish Massage Parlor, located at 1273 N. Garey Ave., also scheduled for Tuesday. It is also operated by Jennings.

Athenas, located at 560 E. Mission Blvd., appeared in court last week and was granted a 60-day continuance until early December. The owner-operators and property owners are Alyene Whitlock and Bob Whitlock. They are the parents of Tommie Whitlock.

Cover Girl Modeling Studio, located at 360 E. Holt Ave., set for Monday after receiving a continuance from last week. The business operator is Ed Marion under the name Vista Enterprises, said police, while the property owner is Clyde Warren.

First swine flu clinics in area open Friday for senior citizens

Here's where to go to get the flu shots

San Bernardino County Health Department will offer free swine flu immunizations on Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the following locations in the West End:

County Parks and Recreation Building, 9161 Base Line Ave., Cucamonga; District Health Center, County Building, Chino; Contact Station, 10155 24th St., Cucamonga; Visiting Nurse Association, 5156 Holt Blvd., Montclair; and First Presbyterian Church, 869 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

Also in Ontario at the Salvation Army, 1412 S. Euclid Ave., First Christian Church, Holt and Vine streets, and West End District Health Center, 1020 W. Sixth St.

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

As a part of a nationwide coordinated effort to immunize 200 million Americans against swine flu, the first clinics in the local area will open Friday for persons over 60 or those suffering chronic illnesses.

Both San Bernardino and Los Angeles county health departments are continuing with all programs as planned despite the deaths of three persons in Pennsylvania after they had received the shots.

San Bernardino County Health Department will conduct eight clinics in the West End Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Los Angeles County Health Department will hold two clinics each on Oct. 25, 27 and 29 in eastern Los Angeles County.

In Los Angeles County, the clinics will be operated between 10 a.m and 2 p.m. The Monday clinics will be at the San Dimas Community Center and Washington Park Community Center in Pomona. The Oct. 27 clinics will be at Taylor Hall in Claremont and the Pomona First Christian Church while Oct. 29 clinics are scheduled at Pomona's St. Joseph Catholic Church and at Bell Memorial United Methodist Church in Rowland Heights.

Beginning Nov. 1, additional clinics will be scheduled in both counties to provide free immunizations for persons 18 and older. Neither health department has decided whether children under 18 who have no health problems will be included in the immunization program.

That decision is expected to be made after Oct. 22, when additional information on size of dosage, number of shots and other research concerning the children's program has been analyzed.

Flu remains one of the few epidemic diseases which man has not found a way to control, according to Dr. Jack Putnam of the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services.

According to scientists this is true because the flu virus is capable of changing its structure so often that man cannot build up specific protection against it. Once about every 10 years there occurs what scientists call a "major antigenic shift."

"When this happens, the flu virus has changes so much that practically no one has any immunity to it," said Dr. Putnam.

Scientists have identified the present swine strain and said it could spread to the general population causing a severe epidemic.

But the program approved by the federal government this spring has not gone smoothly. During the summer, the program was delayed some three months over questions of insurance for the vaccine distributors.

Now the deaths of several senior citizens after they had attended clinics to obtain the innoculation has thrown an additional cloud over the program.

While Southern California counties are continuing with their plans, in at least two California counties, the program has been delayed.

Even though authorities attributed the deaths in Pennsylvania to heart attacks and said they had no evidence they were caused by the immunization program, the clinics which started in the San Francisco Bay area Tuesday were hurt by the news.

People who were waivering about getting shots often chose to delay their immunizations, an official reported.

Alameda County officials decided to postpone their clinics a few days until federal health investigators could say definitely that the Pittsburgh deaths were unrelated to the vaccine.

In Santa Cruz County, Health Director Dr. Joseph Craig stopped all swine flu shots until autopsy reports are completed in the Pittsburgh deaths.

The program will begin next week in both San Diego and Orange counties, with no change in plans expected, according to officials.

In San Diego federal court Tuesday, an Oceanside minister lost a legal battle to stop the flu shot program.

While nurses have already been trained in the innoculation procedures and hundreds will serve as volunteers during the massive program, volunteers are still needed to monitor traffic, register individuals, swab arms and complete record forms.

Mary Lou Ginther of the Los Angeles County Health Department estimates that 15 volunteers are needed to assist at each clinic.

Beginning Nov. 1, clinics for persons 18 to 59 will be held in valley cities one night a week for the month of November. They will be scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m. at the same location on the same night of the week for each city.

Persons interested in volunteering are asked to call Miss Ginther at (213) 338-8461.

Residents of Los Angeles County wishing additional information may call 623-6811, ext. 528.

West End residents may call the San Bernardino County hotline 383-3956, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Astara celebrates with an open house

Astara, a religious and educational organization, will celebrate its 25th anniversary with an open house and weekend of activities at its new center, 792 W. Arrow Hwy., Upland.

Co-director Robert Chaney has invited the community to tour the center which is the refurbished former campus of Upland College.

The activities will begin Friday evening with a talk by writer Harold Sherman.

The author of numerous self-help books, Sherman will discuss "Your Mind in Today's World" at 7:45 p.m.

Sherman, a recognized authority on techniques to develop hidden reserves of awareness, will conduct an all-day seminar on Saturday. The morning session will be on "Developing Your Powers of Meditation and Visualization" and the afternoon topic will be "Developing Your Ability to Create Your Future."

At 8 p.m. Saturday, Chaney and his wife, Earlyne, will lead the dedication services for Astara's chapel at the new center.

Astara's Sunday church service will include the 25th anniversary program for the organization which was founded in Los Angeles.

Speaking at the 11 a.m. worship service will be Marcus Bach, former head of the Department of Religion at the University of Iowa and founder-director of the Fellowship for Spiritual Understanding.

In "The Games God Plays" Bach will draw from his extensive contact with numerous denominations of Christianity and other religions of the world to explore higher spiritual influences in human destiny.

Open house will start at 1 p.m. Sunday and tours will continue throughout the day for all buildings on the campus as well as the newly constructed "Garden of the Good Shepherd".

DEDICATION PLANNED

Karinne Pevarnik, seminar director, and Robert Chaney, co-director of Astara, Inc., complete final touches on the "Garden of the Good Shepherd" to be toured during the center's open house and dedication of the new facility this weekend. Astara has relocated from Los Angeles to 792 W. Arrow Hwy., Upland. The first event is planned Friday evening.

CAMPAIGNING DEMOCRATS

Jeff Carter, left, 24-year-old son of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, arrives at Ontario Motor Speedway restaurant with Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., for a testimonial dinner Wednesday night. Lloyd was honored at the event and a second dinner held simultaneously in West Covina. He now is campaigning for a second term in office. Young Carter was accompanied by his wife, Annette. Sen. Alan Cranston was the dinner speaker. Ten Democratic congressmen were in attendance at the two dinners. Carter represented the national Democratic ticket.

Prado Park opens to public Friday

After more than 30 years on the drawing boards, Prado Regional Park near Chino will open to the public Friday morning.

The 150-acre complex will start regular operations at 7 a.m., according to county officials. Recreational areas that will be open are family picnic sites, children's playgrounds, and a 50-space campground with full hook-ups.

The Friday opening marks completion of Phase One at the park — with Phase Two scheduled to get underway before the end of the year. The second phase will include enlarging Prado's two small fishing ponds into one 59-acre lake that will provide enough area for boating.

Other improvements in the second phase will include an equestrian center, skeet shoot range and dog training center. The dog center is to open before the end of the year, with other Phase Two developments to be finished by the end of 1977.

Prado Park is located on Euclid Avenue, south of Pine Avenue.

Three new businesses to hold grand opening

Three new businesses moving into a converted service station at Diamond Bar Boulevard and Fountain Springs Road in Diamond Bar will hold a grand opening at that location Friday.

The occupants are Red Banner (Boyer) Realty owned by Dessie Boyer and Bob Black; Don Stokes, an 11-year State Farm Insurance Agent in Diamond Bar; and Al Levy Associates, General Contractor, Custom Homes.

The new business invites residents to drop in and inspect the converted building.

The State Farm office will occupy the space formerly under the station canopy. Al Levy Associates and Red Banner Realty will be housed inside the building.

A brief ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held at 5 p.m.

P-R commission

Pomona Parks and Recreation Commission will meet tonight at 7:30 in the City Council chambers.

Vice chairman Richard Speier will conduct the meeting in the absence of Dr. Ivan Smith, chairman.

Annual book sale slated

Friends of the Claremont Public Library will hold their annual book sale at the library Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

For sale will be donated books, record albums, sheet music, National Geographics, and paperbacks.

Proceeds from the group's only money-making project will go towards buying equipment needed by the library.

Business needs self-regulation

In a report soon to be published, a House of Representatives subcommittee makes allegations about financial and supervisory controls in U.S. corporations which should, if proven true, be of major concern to all of us.

Of 25 corporations examined in detail in one sample, 44 per cent "had recorded payments in accounts which did not reflect the true nature of the payment; 20 per cent maintained off-the-book accounts; and 12 per cent showed that books and records have been falsified."

The report by the subcommittee on oversight and investigations of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, says that a significant number of the corporations studied have ineffective internal financial controls. They were not adequate to prevent over-billing and over-invoicing, in which the excess is kicked back to purchasing agents or suppliers. They were insufficient to prevent laundering of money through off-the-book bank accounts. They are not even sufficient to catch and remedy repeated instances of out-and out human mistakes. These practices and errors cropped up repeatedly in the subcommittee study.

The sad conclusion of those making this investigation was that some of our major corporations in too many cases did not have financial controls to provide reasonable assurance that corporate transactions were carried out in accordance with the desire or authorization of the top management, and most certainly no assurance that the will of the board of directors or the stockholders was being followed.

Where the illegalities were pursued by top management or carried out with their knowledge, there was no adequate system of checks by which either corporate directors, the stockholders or government regulating bodies could have knowledge of irregularities in the normal course of events. In some cases, company directors did not even have power to bring illegal behavior under control.

The investigation was made after 150 companies disclosed illegal or questionable payments or practices — money given officials in foreign countries, political payments at home and commercial irregularities.

These are, to an important degree, well-known, respected firms in which, through pension funds, small investments of savings and worker profit-sharing plans, many Americans have an interest.

The subcommittee sees a need for greater independence by company directors from the management of the firm they are overseeing, and the need for having directors who will devote more time to their role of overseeing.

Committee members who have studied the matter feel corporate boards of directors must also have staffs which are free of company officer influence and control.

The subcommittee deplores the wide variation in accounting methods, the lack of stringent accounting standards, and a looseness in auditing methods as practiced — which combine to create a situation in which irregularities are difficult to uncover. They note that in too many cases independent auditors are not independent, having such close ties to the companies they audit, their objectivity is suspect.

The issue, of course, is not simply morality, but the protection of the interests of those whose pensions and savings are invested in a company, and the interests of the consumer, who pays through the nose when irregularities result in higher prices.

Businessmen complain — and rightly — of excessive government interference and regulation. It behooves business, therefore, to make certain that through its trade organizations it builds a system of self-policing which removes the need for so much government snooping. Otherwise our free enterprise system, in which so many of us have faith, will come on hard times.

Think on these things

We judge life and other people by how it is with us. It is not a fair judgment, but we do it anyway.

Sage Alexander Pope who always seemed to have fit comment for any occasion put it this way: "It is with our judgments as it is with our watches ; no two go just alike, yet each believes his own." We even judge ourselves by what we think we are capable of doing and our judgment of others is not so different. We believe we are able to be just and kind and calm in the fiercest storm — and the other people, no doubt, have many hidden weaknesses that will confront him at the height of a crisis.

It would be impossible not to make some silent judgment, but to be kind — even to ourselves makes living a lot easier.

City redevelopment projects

Dear Editor:

Thanks to the Progress Bulletin the property owners of Pomona are being kept at least current with the various redevelopment activities of the city. We first learned of the Ganesha Redevelopment concept by reading the PB on Aug. 19. The newspaper reported that notices would be sent to all property owners and that all legal requirements would be complied with in the matter. To date we have received no direct information from the city. On Aug. 25 we read that property owners in the Reservoir Street area were having similar redevelopment problems.

Nothing more seems to have appeared in the PB until Oct. 3 when hidden under a heading with nothing to do with redevelopment we noted a small section mentioning that the city council was going to rule on the boundary lines for the Ganesha Redevelopment project. We attended that meeting and voiced our observations concerning the matter. As we see it now, the city will prepare a fully documented redevelopment plan and within the space of a few hours divulge it at a public hearing, then force through the project. We are now calling on all property owners in the city to demand a full accounting of all these redevelopment projects.

In a followup article in the PB on Oct. 5 we noted that after the city council meeting, city administrator Gonce stated that property owners within 300 feet of the project would be notified by mail and the rest would have to depend on newspaper accounts of the meeting or call city hall. It would have been just as easy to have given the assembled citizens this information during the meeting. That is why we attended — to petition the elected officials as to the action we felt was necessary. This informal data release is the very thing which informed citizens must demand be terminated, and also that elected and appointed officials make a full detailed public statement for all citizens to hear and understand.

The 300 foot limitation is rather meaningless as the distances are quite large in the Ganesha Hills area, and there is no way this type of "controlled' release would allow for a sufficient number of taxpaying property owners to meet with Mr. Gonce. We suggest that all citizens write to the city council. Express your opinions freely. We are confident that this redevelopment situation is far from over, and if the citizens do not want to support it, then Mr. Gonce should be told by Mayor Lepire to take steps to terminate the expenditure of public funds now being made to support the redevelopment project.

WASHINGTON — Just as German submarines preferred to strike at dawn or dusk, the special interests have found that the best time to torpedo legislation is during the end-of-the-season rush.

Then the legislators are so impatient to adjourn Congress and head for home that they don't often bother to scrutinize the fine print. The action is also too fast for the public to follow.

Earlier this month, Congress closed down for the 1976 season, and the smoke is now beginning to clear from the adjournment rush. Many of the departing congressmen may be surprised to learn that they left the Federal Renegotiation Board on the shoals.

This agency should be the scourge of the big defense contractors. Potentially, it could recover hundreds of millions in excess profits that the munitions makers had squeezed from the taxpayers.

This has made members of Congress apprehensive about the Renegotiation Board. Every weapons system is supported by a formidable lobby, composed of the military brass who believe in it, the contractors who manufacture the component parts, the workers who put them together and the congressmen whose district enjoy the economic benefits.

The bond between the congressmen and the contractors has been made all the tighter by a steady flow of campaign contributions. Many congressmen, therefore, support the contractors who pick the taxpayers' pockets rather than the agency that guards against the corporate pickpockets.

Democrats and Republicans alike have conspired to limit the powers of the Renegotiation Board. But Sen. William Proxmire, D.-Wis., a foe of Pentagon waste, has sought to strengthen the board. He sponsored a bill that would have made the board a permanent agency and would have given it tough subpoena and inspection powers over contractors.

The Proxmire measure would also have wiped out special loopholes indeed to protect the oil industry and would have increased the penalties upon the profiteers.

It was awkward for any member of Congress to oppose these reforms in the open. On the Senate floor, even the oil industry's most staunch friend in the Senate, Russell Long, D.-La., agreed to hold hearings.

Subsequently, the reform measure was skillfully steered through the House by Rep. Joseph Minish, D.-N.J. But Long never got around to scheduling the Senate hearings he had promised.

In desperation, Proxmire sent a private, urgent "Dear Colleague" letter to his fellow senators. It's against the rules of the Senate for one senator to disparage another or to question his motives. So Proxmire, complying with senatorial courtesy, accused Long of welshing in the kindliest language. He noted delicately that Long "had not gotten around" to the bill.

But in firmer tones, Proxmire urged that the bill be taken up in the closing days of Congress. There could be billions of the taxpayers' money at stake, he felt. For a brief time, it appeared that he might marshal enough votes to pass the reforms.

Then Long, exercising his prerogatives as Senate Finance Committee chairman, blocked the bill. Rather than risk letting it pass, he simply permitted the entire board to die as a federal agency.

As of now, the Renegotiation Board continues to function on old cases. But theoretically, it doesn't even exist. It has funds to keep it going into next year. But at least until Congress can reinstitute it in January, all its actions are subject to challenge.

The armaments industry, meanwhile has won another victory over the taxpayers.

WATCH ON WASTE: The General Accounting Office has completed a secret study of the federal flood insurance program, which spends millions to insure communities against flood damage.

In theory, the idea is sound. But our sources say the costly insurance has been issued to cover hillsides and other areas totally out of reach of any flood short of Noah's.

The GAO study takes a harsh view of waste in the federal program. It is expected to be released within 50 days unless efforts to weaken or delay it are successful.

Paul Harvey

The bright horizon

Political campaigners have to be fault-finders.

Carter has to cite imperfections and inequities in order to justify a change; President Ford has to blame a "spendthrift Congress" for the extravagances with which they overrode his vetoes.

But while those fellows harp on what's wrong, let's not lose sight of what's right.

Editor George Jones of U.S. News and World Report says, "A profound change is stirring in this country. Years of turmoil and self-doubt are ending as America begins to rediscover itself and its future."

To which I say "Amen."

As an historian I can recall no period in the history of our nation when we had more to be thankful for.

My Bicentennial-year travels reveal a renewed respect for work and less tolerance for those who refuse to work. .

Some black leaders of the rioting of the Sixties are now urging on their followers "morality" and "self-help" and "civic responsibility."

Students who had been burning flags and marching against the establishment are now preoccupied with "vocational education" and, perhaps more significant, there is among them a religious awareness of no small dimensions, a reaffirmation of our nation's spiritual foundation.

The most recent Gallup survey shows 39 percent of Americans believe "religion is increasing its influence." That's almost triple the 14 percent of just six years ago.

Necessarily the eyes of the news tend to focus on crime, drug addiction and classroom disorders. But irrefutable statistics show that the crime increase is measurably less, per capita drug addiction is measurably diminished.

Where pollution of air and water is sequentially measured, it is less. There is no city where you cannot see across the smoky street anymore.

And last year the death rate in the United States from all causes was the lowest since we've been keeping track.

Outsiders sometimes recognize our blessings more readily than do homefolks. Max Hastings of the London Evening Standard says, "The United States has embarked on a renaissance that to an Englishman seems enormously enviable."

Further, our timely Bicentennial introspection has re-reminded Americans and their observers abroad that ours — after all — is a political system more dynamic and more self-corrective and less self-destructive than any so far devised by any other nation.

We are enjoying what George Jones aptly calls "a warm and satisfying reunion of the American family."

From two bitter misadventures — intervention in Vietnam and near bankruptcy in New York City — Americans have retreated, re-evaluated, reaffirmed the old-fashioned and still valid absolutes: We cannot play custodian for the world and we cannot spend ourselves rich.

Now we're back to building our tomorrows on New England granite: righteousness, hard work, self-discipline.

Happy new century, Americans; we're off to a real good start!

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

In addition to his private key to the executive rest room, office plants have now become a status symbol for the American business man. The more flower pots and planters and hanging baskets he has in his office, the higher he rates in his firm's hierarchy. And apparently when it comes to telling the world what a success he is, there's no limit to how effectively an executive status seeker can say it with flowers. One Big Shot, I am told, recently ordered a hydroponic garden installed in his office.

Court financing

By EARL G. WATERS

Governor Jerry Brown's veto of the bill to defray Madera County expenses in the trials of the Chowchilla school children kidnappers was everything its author, Assemblyman Ken Maddy, called it.

Maddy, a moderate Republican who often acts more like a Democrat, probably because he represents a district predominantly registered Democratic, termed the veto "flippant" and said the governor totally lacked sensitivity.

Attorney Maddy's wrath is two fold. He sees the possibility of a miscarriage of justice if the county is unable to finance the court battles anticipated in the prosecution of the kidnappers whose well-heeled families will be employing high powered counsel for prolonged legal maneuvering. He also sees the injustice of putting an undue tax burden upon the families of the victims.

For Madera is one of the state's smaller counties, just barely over 40,000 population. Its total revenues from property taxes are only about $5 million. Recent celebrated trials have been running as high as $1 million in costs to the taxpayers. And, as Maddy sees it, to require a small county to expend 20 per cent of its total budget for all county government operations on a single trial is unrealistic.

The governor objected to the bill on the grounds it would apply to any situation similar to Madera County's plight. He indicated he might approve a measure limited to aiding that county alone. That may be good penny pinching but it plays havoc with the logic his Jesuit training should have provided. If the principle is sound in providing aid to Madera County why shouldn't any other county confronted with a similar problem also be assisted?

The issue resurfaces the question of who should finance the superior courts. The fact is that such courts are state courts. That is recognized in part by the state paying the lion's share of the salaries of the judges of those courts. And it would seem time for the state to assume full responsibility for the costs of those courts. In a mobile society, local property owners shouldn't be required to bear the burdens of trials which come into the courts by twists of fate and accident of county lines.

There is no more reason for the county taxpayers to pay for the superior courts than it would be for them to finance the costs of those same cases when they go to the appellate and supreme courts.

Full state financing of superior courts would get the hearty support of those who contend property taxes should be levied only for property related services such as police and fire protection.

The debate over court financing opens the scope of true property tax reform. Local government should not be required to finance those functions of government over which it has no control. Certainly it has no control over the courts, nor should it.

Of course, true property tax relief measures must contemplate that, if and when the state does assume the full burden of court expense, it does not free local tax revenues for other purposes but directly benefits the taxpayer by property tax reductions.

To date the fallacy of all property tax relief measures has been the increasing of subsidies to local government with no absolute limits on property taxes. Although Governor Reagan attempted to design his home owner tax exemption subsidies that way by freezing tax rates, he left the back door wide open in overlooking the ability of local government to increase assessed valuations. The result has been the state has greatly increased subsidies to local government and the property tax bills keep climbing anyway.

Ann Landers

Grades don't make doctors

Dear Ann Landers: Your admonition to "Reno, Nevada" to remember that "fifty per cent of the doctors now practicing medicine were in the bottom half of their class" was misleading. If you believe that those who graduated in the upper fifty per cent turned out to be better doctors — you're wrong

I'm a medical student who heard you speak at Duke University and thought you were great. That answer wasn't what I expected from you, Ann Landers.

From what I've seen here at Duke (and Harvard before that) I can tell you those academic geniuses often make better research guys than practicing physicians. It's one thing to be brilliant in the lab and another thing to be a compassionate, dedicated doctor.

These days, when it is especially difficult to get into ANY medical school, I've often thought what a pity it is that so many potentially first-rate physicians are being excluded because the emphasis is so heavily slanted toward the academic. Of course a competent physician must know his stuff when it comes to the basic sciences, but the human qualities — maturity, stability, a sense of dedication and caring — don't come through in the tests and they are extremely important in the making of a fine physician. Sign me — Durham, N.C.

Dear N.C.: Your concept is right on. And guess who is putting it into practice? The People's Republic of China! They pick their medical students precisely along the lines you mentioned. Academic achievement counts for less than 50 per cent.

Dear Ann: I am married to a man who eats too much, drinks too much and smokes too much. I've fought all those battles and lost, so now I'm writing about a problem I've never seen discussed in your column.

Every night Charles goes to sleep with radio earphones plugged into his ears. He claims he can't sleep without them and even takes the stupid things along when we go on vacation.

Frequently during the night the earplugs fall out and scare me to death with the 3:00 a.m. news or the sudden blast of a rock band. Charles never hears a thing because he's snoring his head off.

I need my rest and would like to know what I can do about this. Some nights I get so mad I feel like strangling him with the earphone cords. Please don't suggest that I sleep elsewhere. We have no spare room. Thanks for whatever help you can give me. — Baggy-Eyed In Suburbia

Dear B.E.: Do you have adhesive tape in the house? Well, use it to secure the earphones to your husband's head — and get some rest, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing for my two younger sisters as well as myself. They are 11 and 13. I am 14. We all have the same problem.

Two weeks ago Dad and Mom split. They are not divorced but they are going to be soon. When people call on the phone and ask for Dad, I don't know what to tell them. Mom doesn't like it when I say, "He doesn't live here anymore."

Can you solve this problem? — From P.A.

Dear P.A.: Surely your mother knows where your dad is living. When someone calls asking for him, whoever answers the phone should give the caller that information. Nothing more need be said.

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." L.M. Boyd

Chinese tale true, it's said

This tale sounds more like fiction than fact, but an authority who ought to know insists it's true: During the 19th Century, the Empress Dowager of China wanted to build a summer palace just outside Peking. It was to be shaped like a boat with a river flowing around it. She liked the pink Italian marble, so imported thousands of tons of it, along with Italian masons. While setting the stones, the Italians sang and hummed "The Barcarole" from the opera "The Tales of Hoffman." The Empress fell in love with the melody, and so did the Chinese laborers. When the work was done, the Italians left, but the melody lingered on. The Chinese peasants thereabouts hummed it incessantly. That angered the Empress. The dubious end line is she had over 10,000 Chinese beheaded so that tune would be hers alone. Fascinating, if factual.

CONGRESS

Q. "Does any specific law compel a US Congressman to attend any session of the House of Senate?"

A. No, if said official never showed up at all, it would be perfectly legal.

Q. "How many women during the last 200 years in this country have been appointed to the federal bench?"

A. Just 10.

Item No. 614B in our Love and War man's file labeled "Expectant Brides" is this quoted comment by Henry Smith of the US Census Bureau: "The statistics seem to suggest that a girl who becomes pregnant before marriage and marries the father seems to make out as well (in holding the marriage together) as does the girl who kept her body pure."

CLASSIFIED AD

Maybe you saw the electric power company's classified ad which read: "Notice! We'll be delighted, if you'll pay your bill promptly. You'll be de-lighted, if you don't."

Not only do you get 450 pounds of meat out of a 1,000-pound steer, but you also get marshmallows, sutures, leather, insulin, cosmetics, soap and violin strings, please note.

Credit that famous Franch artist Henri De Toulouse-Lautrec with the creation of that gourmet dish known as "Chocolate Mousse." The footnotes reveal that Henri was pretty catty in the kitchen, too.

The late Howard Hughes was once asked what he would do if he lost all his money. Said he: "I'd get into my plane and fly out over the Pacific and dive it into the ocean."

Is "guck" a word? My dictionary says so. "Perhaps from 'goo' plus 'muck'," reads the big book at hand.

The muscles in a caterpillar outnumber the muscles in a man by more than 2,000 to fewer than 700.

Dr. Miller

Water spider needs land, too

DEAR DR. MILLER: I found little Sylvia Spider right at the edge of a pond. She looked like she'd make a nice pet, so I brought her home and put her in my aquarium. The next time I looked, she was drowned. I may have made a mistake. Now I'm not so sure she was a water spider. If I get another one, how could I tell? — K.I.

DEAR K.I.: Actually, water spiders don't look much like the garden variety. But should you find another pet and still aren't sure, give her an option next time. She should have a shoreline. If she ecstatically flings herself into the "surf," it's reasonable to assume that's her natural environment. Should she retreat, shaking her feet, to higher (drier) ground, chances are good she's not a swimmer — at least not of Olympic caliber.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I can't tell you too much about Pot, our turtle, except to say she's eaten little or nothing since we moved here three months ago. Could it be she's wanting to hibernate? She kind of acts that way. In past years, she hibernated for a very short time and didn't start nearly this early. — U.T.

DEAR U.T.: Perhaps Pot wants to hibernate, though if she's in poor condition, her chances of surviving hibernation aren't good. If the doctor checking on her, (and one should soon) found nothing specific to account for her present condition, he probably recommends (1) she be kept awake, at a reasonably warm temperature which might stimulate her appetite and (2) perhaps be given appetite-stimulating injections. If necessary, she might even require subcutaneous fluids for a while in an effort to "get her going again".

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've been getting my dog vaccinated for years for leptospirosis. It suddenly dawned on me I don't even know what leptospirosis is. — S.A.

DEAR S.A.: Leptospirosis is a bacterial disease caused by a spirochete which can cause fatal damage to liver or, more frequently, the kidneys. Leptospirosis organisms are transmitted through the urine from dogs or other animals, including rats. The disease can also affect humans and so protecting your dog from it helps to protect you. Annual vaccinations are recommended, though in high risk areas (such as those with a heavy rat population), semi-annual injections may be advisable.

Erma Bombeck

Can't stand optimistic people

If there's anything I can't stand it's being around people who are optimistic about everything.

When I'm ready to drown in a pool of self-pity, I don't want anyone throwing me a sanctimonious line.

As I told a well-meaning friend the other day, "I walked by the mirror today and said, 'Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the fairest of them all?'"

"What did it say?" Esther asked.

"I don't have to listen to language like that."

"At least you've got your health," said Esther.

"No one should be this healthy. Do you realize what I've got to squeeze into?"

"You can only wear one dress at a time," she smiled stoicly.

"That's the point, turkey, I may have to start wearing both of them at the same time."

"Waste not, want not, " she said.

"You know the trouble with me? I'm too cheap to throw anything away. I clean up the kids' plates like a suction nozzle on the sweeper. I don't have a mouth. I have a trunk."

"A woman never stands so tall as when she stoops to eat a crumbled cookie."

"Where did you hear that?"

"In the Bible, I think."

"Mayva said the other day I wasn't obese, I just had a lot of fat that didn't fit."

"Consider the source."

"I am considering the source, Esther. The mouth of the Nile should have such a source. Does it bother you the way Mary Tyler Moore stands around with both hands on her hips? You just know they can span her waist."

"Yes, but is she happy?"

"If she isn't, I never want to smile again. I could be a size 5 if I wanted to. If I could just stop rewarding myself for answering the phone and bringing in the milk."

"Rome wasn't built in a day," she smiled charitably.

"It's your fault I'm fat!" I charged. "You and your platitudes."

"Well, maybe you could lose a few pounds."

"Boy, Esther, I never figured you for a mean mouth."

Dr. Lamb

Can diet affect hearing loss?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had Meniere's disease for 26 years. The hearing in my right ear deteriorated first. After about 15 years my left ear started to go.

I no longer have the serious vertigo I had the first 15 years, only occasional slight dizziness, particularly when I roll over in bed, rarely when I am upright.

I wear hearing aids on both ears. The sound distortion, however, is becoming more serious and I am concerned about being able to continue working which requires talking to others and on the phone.

Last year I heard about a doctor who had some success in restoring hearing in Meniere's patients using a low cholesterol diet.

My other health is fine. I am 54 and weigh 130 pounds and am 5 feet 2. I would certainly try a diet if it would help my hearing. Thank you for any advice you can give.

DEAR READER — Your case is unusual because it involves both ears and began at such an early age. Meniere's disease more often begins in middle life.

For the benefit of other readers the disease is characterized by dizziness (vertigo) that makes a person have a sensation of motion, loss of hearing and ringing or buzzing in the ears. Unless there is an associated hearing loss it is not true Meniere's disease.

A person with this disease may feel fine except during attacks. The attacks may be associated with nausea and rarely vomiting, somewhat like motion sickness. During the attack the eyes may be seen to move back and forth in jerky movements called nystagmus.

As the hearing is lost dizziness disappears as it has in your case. Hearing loss is progressive so the dizziness sensation seems to burn itself out in time. The attacks are treated with medicines used to treat motion sickness.

The cause of the disease is unknown. Some authorities think it is caused by an accumulation of excess fluid in the delicate balance apparatus inside the ear. These canals are somewhat like a carpenter's level and send signals to the brain about the position of the head. When they are inflamed or accumulate fluid or are otherwise damaged they send false information to the brain, just as a faulty carpenter's level could give misinformation. The brain then is confused, causing sensations of motion.

You can have the sensation of dizziness or vertigo from other medical problems, including inflammation resulting from a recent viral respiratory infection and, of course, some people get it from motion sickness.

A diet that restricts salt is used in some patients with Meniere's disease to try to prevent any accumulation of fluid in the balance canals. And circulation can be a factor. I am doubtful that you will get much benefit from a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet but it is worth trying. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. Fatty cholesterol deposits can affect any arteries and impair circulation. Some people do get improvement in hearing and ear function if they are able to reverse these circulation problems so you might as well try it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An old issue that caused friction in the family may surface today. Try to treat it more tactfully this time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your chances of getting others to do things for you today will be very slim if your approach is too demanding. Say "please" and "thank you."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be more on guard than usual with possessions today. Don't leave valuables in your car without locking it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're bent upon doing things your way today. This could result in problems. Conditions inhibiting your independence should be handled tolerantly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Think your moves through carefully today or you'll box yourself into a corner. Above all, don't do anything out of spite.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Think twice today before committing yourself to anything that could tie up future resources or earnings. You could bite off more than you can chew!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Goals you set will be thwarted if you fail to use logical procedures. You tend to put obstacles in your own path today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't pry too deeply into the affairs of others today or you may discover and misinterpret something you're better off not knowing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The outcome could haunt you if you recommend a person whose business ethics you're unsure of to friends. Boost only known quantities today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're vulnerable to being used by others today. Select companions carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're apt to try to force round pegs into square holes at work today. Rely on your brains, not on your brawn.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tread warily today in any situation that smacks of speculation. You could risk more than you should.

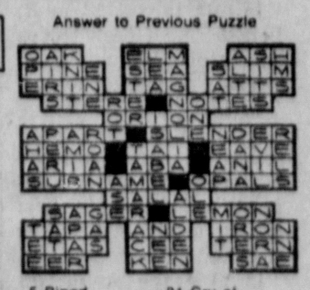
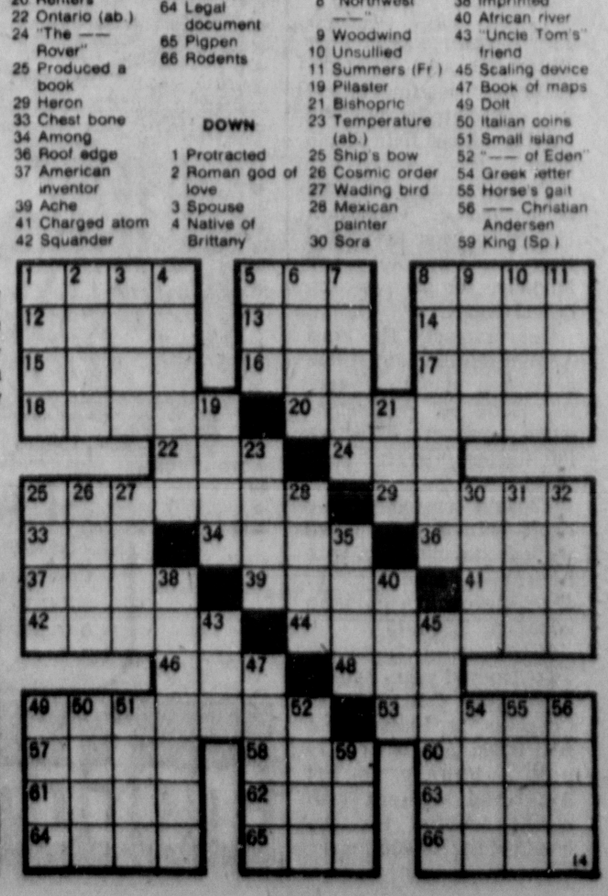
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Robert Schuller

It's God-like to forgive

There was a man who was the victim of injustice who asked his pastor, "Is it not man-like of me to be angry?" And his pastor said, "Indeed it is. But it would be God-like of you to forgive."

The Old Testament Bible tells how Joseph was sold by his brothers as a slave to Egypt. They had hoped they could kill him and get him out of the way. He became, however, a ruler. They meant to kill him, but they ended up in the providence of God, crowning him. As Joseph said, "You meant it for evil, but God meant it for good."

Let God balance the scales of justice. You'll be spared from the terrible toll of tension that is inevitable if you decide "to try to even the score." You'll be surprised how God will turn your scars into stars.

By American Cancer Society

Pomona physician honored

A Pomona physician was honored by the American Cancer Society and officers were elected at the society's Northeast Los Angeles County Unit's annual meeting.

Dr. John A. Gius was presented the society's National Certificate of Merit for his contributions to public education, particularly the formation of the Pomona Valley Action Committee and its multiphase anti-smoking program for schools and the community.

Also honored by the society were Dr. Norvelle Harris of Glendora, for her work with the Interhospital Cancer Program in the East San Gabriel Valley, and Dr. J. Paul Geleris of Glendora, for 20 years as a volunteer.

Other awards went to the Pacific Telephone Co., for assistance with the 1976 Cancer Crusade; the Bob Rope Cancer Foundation; and William Leonard, president of the Ralph M. Parsons Co., which hosted the 1976 Tournament for Life, a golf tournament benefiting the American Cancer Society.

Lawrence Sheehy of Pasadena was installed as president of the unit. Other officers will be Dr. Geleris, president-elect; Sandra W. Ramos of South Pasadena, Dr. Sydney Schall of Alhambra and Seymour E. Lichtman of West Covina, all vice presidents; Mrs. Sherrie Ann Margid of Covina, secretary; and Virgil D. Waters of Arcadia, treasurer.

Dr. J. Douglas Smith of Arcadia is the immediate past president.

Local members of the board installed at the meeting were John Felton and Paul McQuade, both of Claremont.

"Volunteer of the Year" was Mrs. Margid.

Nicholas Polos of Claremont served as master of ceremonies and Miss Mary Lou Ginther of Pomona was a member of the planning committee for the annual program at the Quiet Cannon restaurant in Montebello.

Today is Thursday, Oct. 14, the 288th day of 1976. There are 78 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1066, Normans under William the Conqueror defeated the English at the Battle of Hastings.

On this date —

In 1644, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, was born in London.

In 1890, the 34th president of the United States, Dwight Eisenhower, was born in Denison, Tex.

In 1933, Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations.

In 1944, in World War II, British and Greek troops liberated Athens from German occupation forces.

In 1947, U.S. Air Force Captain Charles Yeager tested a rocket-powered research airplane in California and became the first person to fly faster than sound.

In 1964 the American black leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Ten years ago: An early fall blizzard swept over Wyoming and Eastern Colorado, isolating cities, blocking highways and leaving at least four people dead.

Five years ago: Dr. Earl Sutherland of Vanderbilt University won the Nobel Prize for Physiology and Medicine for his research on hormones.

One year ago: The Ford Administration said it had devised a plan to protect the rights of Americans while continuing effective intelligence operations.

Thought for today: You can't hold a man down without staying down with him. — Booker T. Washington, American educator, 1856-1915.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia sent funds to New York to pay a bounty to all American soldiers who would reenlist for the length of the Revolutionary War.

Fresno adopts integration plan that sets quotas

FRESNO (AP) — On the eve of a federal hearing into school segregation charges here, the Board of Education has adopted a wide-ranging integration plan that sets quotas for white enrollment at a predominantly black high school.

Under threat of losing $5 million in federal aid, the Fresno Unified School District reached a compromise with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and announced its decision Tuesday.

The program calls for the racial composition of Edison High School in west Fresno to be 30 per cent non-minority by next October and 40 per cent non-minority by October 1978.

HEW had scheduled a hearing for today to examine the segregation charges, but the school board's action postponed the proceeding indefinitely. An HEW spokesman said if the district lives up to its agreement, the agency will end its eight-year investigation of racial and ethnic imbalance in Fresno schools.

The case is one of the oldest in HEW files.

Under the new plan, the school administration was ordered to develop means of alleviating racial isolation in all district schools, 25 per cent of which have minority enrollments that exceed 50 per cent.

It also eliminates a student's option to attend Edison part time. Presently there are about 200 students, many of them white, who take special courses at Edison spend most of their day at other district schools.

Edison was also designated as the district's vocational and technical center, so students seeking this type of instruction will have no choice but to attend Edison.

District officials say they had been attempting to balance enrollments at the school with a less forceful desegregation plan that attempted to lure whites there by offering special programs.

HEW maintained that the method was not working. The school argued it merely needed time to grow, but relented to avoid a court battle and the loss of federal money, officials said.

Bridge by Jacobys

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The less said about the bidding of today's hand, the better. Not that six hearts isn't a reasonable contract, but there must be as many ways of bidding those North-South cards as there are bridge players.

South went up with dummy's ace of spades, led the 10 of trumps and finessed. West took his king and laid down the queen of spades. South ruffed and went into executive session. There were three ways to play. One was to lead a trump to dummy's seven and take the club finesse. If that worked he would draw trumps, discard one club on a high diamond and repeat the club finesse.

The second line was to cash the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond, enter dummy with the seven of trumps and, assuming trumps broke 2-2, hope to be able to run the diamonds.

South decided on a third line of play that didn't offer quite as good a chance mathemetically, but gave him an opportunity for lots of thought at the end of the play.

Neither of the first two lines would work. His line did. He simply ran off all his trumps while discarding down to four diamonds and a club in dummy. Then he went after diamonds and since the queen was kind enough to drop he was home with the slam.

Tactical weapon going to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new package of arms aid being arranged for Israel includes a tactical weapon used by the United States in Southeast Asia called the CBU — for cluster bomb units.

It was learned today that the CBU55 weapon will be provided Israel along with several other types of arms, including, as previously disclosed, a missile guidance system that uses infra-red rays to find targets.

The CBU is used primarily against tactical targets such as truck and petroleum depots and masses of tanks. For instance, the United States used CBUs in the early 1970s to clear helicopter landing zones in Southeast Asia.

Basically, a CBU sets off a concussive effect on a target that crushes any object in the area.

Israel has had CBUs in the past, but of less magnitude than the 55 series. The new arrangement will follow the old agreement under which Israel agreed not to use the bomb against civilian targets.

Informed sources said that the sale of the bombs as well as the infra-red targeting device is part of a series that may also include additional tanks.

So far, the value of the guidance systems and the CBUs total between $150 million and $200 million. Under federal law, the Ford administration must inform Congress once the actual offer has been made to Israel. Congress then has 30 days to specifically disapprove the sale or it goes through.

Administration officials said Congress probably would not be informed of the newest transactions until the new session begins next January.

The sale of the CBUs as well as the targeting system is part of a previously agreed-to aid program under which Israel will get in excess of $1 billion in military equipment. In other words, the newly disclosed transactions do not represent additional aid to the Jerusalem government.

Arrest of China radicals a victory for moderates

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

The reported arrest in Peking of Mao Tse-tung's widow and other leaders of the radical wing of the Chinese Communist party represents, if true, a victory for the moderates and a reaffirmation of China's policy of detente with the United States and the West.

It also could mean in the long run tentative moves in Peking to improve relations with the Soviet Union, which have been seriously strained since 1956 because of ideological differences.

What the developments seem to signify as well is that Premier Hua Kuo-feng, reported to be Mao's successor as Communist party chairman, has thrown in his lot with those elements wanting to carry out China's economic development with the help of other countries, emphasizing efficiency and results rather than class struggle — recurring revolution whose ultimate aim is a classless society.

This would appear to be a repudiation of Mao's own line that class struggle should come first. But this contradiction, it now seems, may be disposed of by charging that the radicals, led by Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, 63, either invented his statements on this subject or misrepresented them.

Should it be confirmed that the radicals, in fact, have been removed from the political scene, the big question is whether the stage has now been set for the violence and confusion which many predicted would follow Mao's death, which occurred barely more than a month ago.

The reported elevation of Hua to the party chairmanship was first regarded as a sign that the radicals and moderates had decided to reach a political compromise to insure stability at home and abroad.

Now it appears the radicals made a bold bid for power on their own, one which Hua countered with crushing speed.

He appears to have done so with the support of the commanders of the three-million-man armed forces and their most famous surviving hero, Defense Minister Yeh Chien-ying.

An old crony of the late premier Chou En-lai, Yeh is believed to have chafed at the oblique attacks mounted in recent months against his old friend by the radicals.

Inclined toward moderation rather than radical change, the army commanders also are said to have feared a replay by Madame Ching and the radicals of the 1966-69 cultural revolution which left the army in disarray, the party a shambles and the economy in trouble.

The big guns the radicals were able to bring up against the moderates were the immense prestige of Mao's name, the mass media which they have controlled for a year, and the nation's educated youth, particularly those at Tsinghua and Peking universities in the Chinese capital.

How the students react is one of the vital unanswered questions. They are descendants of the fanatic young Red Guards who, under Madame Ching's direction, created havoc and destruction during the cultural revolution.

Now older and chastened, most of the Red Guards have been sent to the countryside to simmer down and "learn" from the peasants.

The university students have, in their absence, taken the lead in campaigns against the moderates, particularly that which led to the disgrace and downfall of former First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, a Chou protege, in April.

It is possible that Hua, aware of their influence, has already acted to remove them from the political scene. At the same time, he may have seized control of the mass media. There have been reports since Mao's death that shakeups have occurred in that area.

All four of those reported arrested — Madame Ching, First Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, party Vice Chairman Wang Hung-wen, and Politburo member Yao Wen-yuan — are products of the great industiral city of Shanghai and of the Cultural Revolution.

How Shanghai reacts is one of the imponderables of the present political equation.

In moving to the side of the moderates, Hua presumably had to promise that their program, initiated by Chou En-lai, would be carried out. Its chief tenet is getting the economic job done first, with outside help if necessary, and giving class struggle a back seat.

If the moderates have, in fact, won and can consolidate their power, the now-stalled fifth five-year plan will begin to move. That could mean buying more of the machine products and know-how the West can provide, agreeing to long-term credits and opening the door still wider to outside influence.

In the process, ties with the United States and other Western countries should be strengthened. But eventually there may even be moves to improve government - to - government relations with the Soviet Union while insisting on the ideological differences which have divided the two Communist giants.

Colonial inflation

During the Revolutionary War years, paper money became worthless. But its value is picking up as the U.S. Bicentennial draws near. At a recent auction in New York, collectors paid $800 for a 20-shilling note printed by New Hampshire in 1775 and $380 for a $2 bill issued by Virginia in 1781.

Russian Jews write to Ford

MOSCOW (AP) — Two leading Jewish dissidents have written an open letter to President Ford asking why "that just during your presidency, Jewish emigration from the U.S.S.R. drastically decreased."

Mark Azbel, one of the writers of the letter, said their purpose was not to embarrass the President before the election. He said they wanted him to reconcile his concern with "the fact he has apparently done nothing to help our situation."

Azbel and Viktor Brailovsky, who have been waiting for permission to move to Israel since 1972, said they heard over the Voice of America that Ford expressed his "deep concern" about restrictions on Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union.

In their letter, read to Western correspondents over the telephone today, they asked:

"How has it happened that just during your presidency, Jewish emigration from the U.S.S.R. drastically decreased, the persecution of Jewish activists seriously increased and the situation of 'refuseniks' has essentially worsened?"

"Refusenik" is the term Soviet Jews use for those denied permission to leave. They are reportedly subject to sometimes severe harassment by Soviet authorities.

Emigration reached a record high of 35,000 Jews in 1972. The rate dropped sharply in early 1975, after the U.S. Congress made increased emigration a condition of trade concessions sought by the Soviets. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opposed the qualification.

Only 11,000 Jews are expected to be given permission to leave this year.

In New South . . .

Ford's hopes of saving the South for the GOP lie in trying to convince Southerners that as a conservative he holds greater right to their loyalties, even though Carter was born and raised in their midst.

"He may talk like us but he doesn't think like us," said Haley Barbour, the young Mississippian who is Ford's Southern coordinator. And that is the heart of the strategy, that the South "will vote principles instead of geography."

Carter's hopes lie in the belief that the New South retains its traditional regional pride while it tolerates new ideas.

"We don't think Jimmy's out of the mainstream of the South," said Phil Wise, Carter's Southern coordinator. "A lot of the pride of the South is at stake in this race."

Some Carter supporters see his candidacy as a kind of vindication of the South, and this has made a lot of Southerners protective of Jimmy Carter.

After his Playboy interview appeared some Carter campaign offices received calls from people asking just which verses of Scripture he had been referring to in his explanation of pride and lust.

"Now these people know the Bible," said Dunn. "They weren't asking for their own instruction. They wanted the right verses to defend him with."

One problem Ford has in campaigning in the South stems from the very nature of Republican party growth in the region. It has been based largely on the appeal of a national ticket which sold itself and never built a local base independent of coattails.

In some Southern states — Louisiana is a good example — the Republican party has been run more like a private club than a political party. It lacks the organization and machinery for delivering the vote.

Ford must necessarily depend largely on direct appeal from the candidate to the voter through media or through central telephone banks, both highly expensive.

Nevertheless, Ford has potential in some areas of the South, primarily because of the ideological appeal his campaign is trying to press.

Although the national polls show Carter's regional lead over Ford as great as 20 percentage points, local polling and a field survey by The Associated Press show Ford within striking distance in Louisiana, with its large Catholic vote and pockets of high conservatism; in Mississippi, with its conservative nature; in South Carolina, home state of Thurmond and a Republican governor, James Edwards; and in Florida, where Ford strategists say they are six points behind and gaining.

Texas and Virginia, where Republicans have shown consistent strength in recent years, are considered toss-up states.

Carter's headquarters disagrees with the Republican claims and says Carter is leading comfortably throughout the South. The futures of a lot of Democrats are riding on this confidence.

"If we can't carry the South for one of our own," said Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, "after having waited so long for one of his qualifications and his stature, then we ought to turn in our registration cards."

Dairymen demand higher milk prices

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dairymen are demanding higher prices for the kind of milk you drink — but consumers are asking for lower prices, and the grocers say they can't stand both.

These points of view were advanced Tuesday at a hearing by the state Food and Agriculture Department on proposals to increase the state-set minimum farm prices for drinking milk.

Testimony was offered amid speculation that the department plans to increase prices at the farm, and then remove the minimum retail prices.

Minimum wholesale prices were abolished several years ago, and minimum retail prices are being suspended in Sacramento on a test basis.

Food and Agriculture Director L.T. Wallace has 62 days in which to reach a decision on the request for higher farm prices. But LeRoy Walker, chief of the state Bureau of Milk Stabilization, told newsmen that Wallace hasn't said what he'll do.

Arguing in favor of about four cents more per half gallon in farm prices was Jay Goold, executive vice president of the League of California Milk Producers. He said it is needed to offset rising costs.

Goold said there hasn't been an increase in 30 months, and "I don't see how a dairyman is going to be encouraged to produce more milk when he knows the more he produces the less he's going to get for it."

The case for lower retail prices was argued by Roy Alper, director of the California Citizen Action Group, a consumer organization. He said higher farm prices will yield an even greater surplus of milk.

Alper said the federal purchases of non-fat dry milk in California grew by 50 per cent between this year and last.

Between the two were the retailers.

Merle Goddard, lobbyist for the California Grocers Association, said that for the first time, the department had failed to set a hearing on retail prices to follow the one on farm prices so that the increase could be "passed along" to the consumer.

Goddard demanded to know why no such hearing has been scheduled. But his only answer was that Wallace had made a policy decision.

Said Wallace's deputy, Jim Youde: "I can't sit here and give you all the whys and wherefores of policy decisions."

Sinatra again in difficulty with Nevada

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — A legal tug-of-war between entertainer Frank Sinatra and Nevada gaming officials developed today following a move by a firm in which "ol' blue eyes" has invested to sidestep a requirement that he seek a gambling license here.

Lawyers for Del E. Webb Corp. filed an appeal Tuesday in Clark County District Court in efforts to overturn the Nevada Gaming Commission order that Sinatra and business partner Milton Rudin apply for licenses.

The two own 6.6 per cent of the firm, which runs four casinos in Nevada.

Pete Echeverria, chairman of the Gaming Commission, responded to the Del E. Webb move by saying he feels it's "extraordinarily important" that his panel retains authority to check into suitability of persons such as Sinatra who make big investments in publicly traded firms that own casinos.

Echeverria declined to say what specific tack the gaming panel would take in Sintra's case to preserve that authority, which is designed to insure the state and the gaming industry don't get a black eye as a result of unsavory associations.

Sinatra and Rudin, a Beverly Hills, Calif., lawyer, hold the largest single bloc of Del E. Webb stock other than shares held by the Del Webb estate. The firm's Nevada holdings include the Sahara and Mint hotel-casinos in Las Vegas, the Primadonna Club in Reno and the Sahara-Tahoe hotel-casino at Stateline.

Sinatra was stripped of a Nevada gambling license in 1963 for allegedly hosting a mob figure at a club he once owned. Gaming authorities said he played host to the late Sam "Momo" Giancana, assassinated in gangland fashion in June 1975.

Giancana was listed in Nevada's "black book" of persons not allowed in casinos here when he showed up at the Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe. Sinatra later sold the club, saying he had already decided to focus his efforts in the entertainment industry.

That license loss would figure in a new application for licensing, gaming officials have said.

Del E. Webb lawyers claim Sinatra and Rudin don't need licenses because they exert no effective control over the corporation's management or policies.

The appeal also asks the district court, in Las Vegas, to decide who would pay investigative costs involved in licensing—Del E. Webb stockholders or Sinatra and Rudin. Estimates by the firm for such a probe run as high as $500,000.

Firearms become sculpture

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated $2 million worth of firearms and deadly weapons used in crimes and confiscated by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department have been crushed into scrap, as is the custom every year.

Usually the scrap is melted down, but this year's six tons of rubble, along with some bits and pieces from previous years' piles, are going to be turned into a sculpture.

The sculpture, designed by Sgt. Leonard Poteshmkq, a Sheriff's Department artist, will consist of three cubes placed one on top of the other. Each cube face is four feet square and the sculpture will weigh approximately 15 tons. proximately 15 tons.

Dubbed by Sheriff Peter Pitchess "A Monument of Futility," the art work will be placed at the Sheriff's Training Academy here.

Mustangs increasing

BALTIMORE (AP) — According to Deparment of Interior statistics, Oregon has 7,000 wild mustangs. Maryland has only one.

The two-year old mare named Oraenna Littlespirit was brought from Nevada recently by Bart and Holly Ingoglia as part of a program to save wild horses from starvation or from death at the hands of ranchers protecting their grasslands.

Interior officials estimate that there are 50,000 mustangs and 3,000 wild burros on the Western rangelands. Laws to protect them and programs to relocate them have grown in the last two years, and officials estimate that the number of mustangs is increasing by 20 per cent each year.

The Ingoglias, who put in their request for a mustang more than a year ago, said they had not expected to be selected for the program run by the Interior Department and the National Mustang Assn. because there were so many applications and the Ingoglias lived so far from the West.

Anti-breeches

Trousers became popular in America after the War of 1812 as a reaction against the silk breeches-and-hose syndrome that smacked too much of things British. The Duke of Wellington actually helped popularize trousers in England by wearing them to state functions. Early trousers were simply something to protect the fancy breeches when riding, similar to chaps worn by cowboys out West.

Responsibility given to schools

CIF Commissioner Tom Byrnes told a group of athletic directors at a meeting Wednesday that the CIF office wants to return responsibility for releaguing to localized area officials.

"The history of releaguing has been cyclical," Byrnes said at a meeting of the Foothill-Citrus Athletic Directors' Organization. "First, people want to exercise local control in releaguing matters. Then, after haggling over it for some time, they throw up their hands and want to give the responsibility to a committee of people who aren't actually involved on the local level.

"I think that right now we're getting back to the area concept, and I think that's good," said Byrnes.

To that end, the CIF Releaguing Committee has opted to delegate greater control of league realignments to representatives of the schools involved.

The new releaguing procedure, passed by the CIF Executive Council last May, will officially go into effect for the 1978-79 realignment but was essentially used for the recently adopted 1977-78 releaguing plan (which, as was reported here last week, has not yet been settled for the Citrus Belt area).

Schools decide

Under the new format, the Releaguing Committee will still assign each school to a specific geographical area, but the schools assigned to each area will be responsible for setting up leagues within the area.

(For the 1977-78 school year, for example, the CIF Southern Section is divided into nine areas — Coast, Foothill, High Desert, Low Desert, Mt. San Antonio, Northern, Orange County, San Gabriel Valley and the non-geographical Private and Parochial Schools division.

Each area consists of two or more leagues. The Mt. San Antonio area, for example, includes the San Antonio, Hacienda, Sierra and Montview leagues, as well as free lance members Don Lugo High and Boys Republic.)

After the Releaguing Committee sets area boundaries, the geographical groupings will be published and sent to all member schools and the Executive Committee. Member schools will then be permitted to appeal area placements to the CIF Executive Council, whose decision on appeals will be final.

Once area alignments are firm, league representatives will be responsible for developing, at a meeting of the member schools, a proposal for league alignment which includes every school in the area.

That proposal, if approved by a majority of the schools in the area, will be sent to the Releaguing Committee. Any league or member school will then be given the opportunity to object to the proposal, and to submit an alternative proposal for league alignment.

After hearing all appeals, the Releaguing Committee will submit to the Executive Council the proposal from each area, as well as any alternate proposals approved by the Releaguing Committee.

Each original area proposal and any alternatives recommended by the Releaguing Committe will be voted on by league representatives of the area. When an area proposal or approved alternative fails to receive a majority vote, the existing league alignment will be continued for another year.

Beginning to end

"This is essentially the first chance for each area to run the releaguing program all the way from beginning to end," said Byrnes, "with the Releaguing Committee acting only as a guiding moral force. The Council has delegated this new authority to the areas in the hopes that it will bring the schools closer together instead of tearing them apart as releaguing has in the past."

* * *

The Foothill-Citrus Athletic Directors' Organization, which Byrnes was addressing, includes ADs from 45 schools from Alta Loma High on the east side to Bassett in the west and Glendora in the north to Rowland in the south. All valley high schools are included.

The organization, presided over this year by Walt Gurney of Azusa and last year by Bob Baiz of San Dimas, put on the state wrestling tournament last year at Cal Poly and held a dinner to honor scholar-athletes from area high schools. Baiz has applied for NCAA sanction of a summer all-star basketball game to sponsor next year's scholar-athlete dinner. That game would draw graduated seniors from schools west of those involved in the La Verne Rotary game.

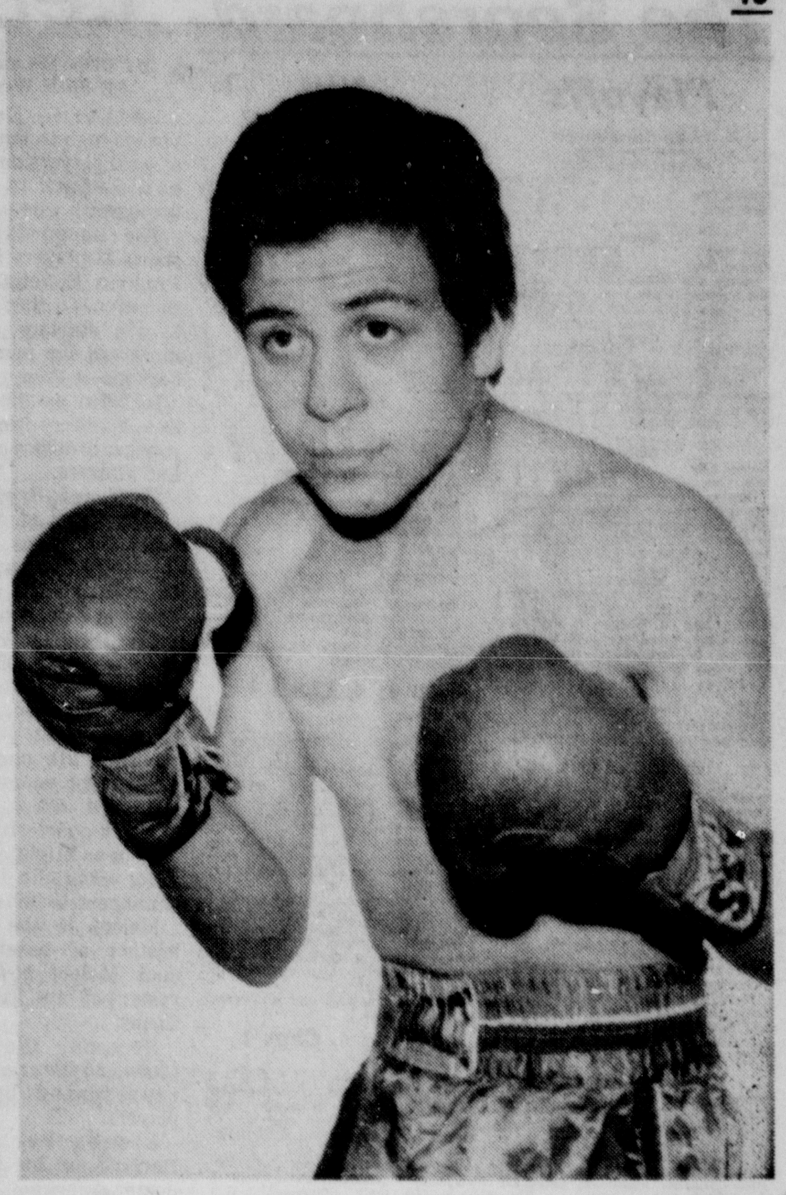
FIGHTER AND COOK

Alberto "Superfly" Sandoval of Pomona is going after his 14th straight win tonight in the ring at the Olympic Auditorium in a bantamweight match against Young Casanova. KCOP (Channel 13) will carry the action at 9 p.m. By day, the Garey High graduate is a cook .



Sandoval goes for 14th in row

LOS ANGELES — Pomona's Alberto Sandoval, 13-0 with nine knockouts, tries for his 14th win in a row tonight in the featured 10-rounder at the Olympic Auditorium when he takes on Mexico City's Young Casanova in a bantamweight match.

Sandoval, a Garey High graduate, stopped Raul Pacheco in five rounds Sept. 9 in his last bout at the Olympic. He has fought nine times this year, winning eight by knockout.

KCOP (Channel 13) will carry tonight's fight from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Three amateur fights open the card at 8 p.m.

Casanova had a 13-fight win streak stopped in June when he lost to Jose del Rio at the Olympic.

Olympic matchmaker Don Chagin says he will attempt to sign tonight's winner against no. 6 bantamweight contender Frankie Duarte for a December match.

Following tonight's fight, Sandoval will return to his Pomona home to get ready for his other job as a cook at the Jack In The Box Drive Through restaurant at Holt and Garey avenues. He works the shift from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m.

However, Sandoval is starting a new job next week as a salesman at Roberts Department store in the Indian Hill Village.

This way, he won't have to start work until 10 a.m. the day after a fight.

Royals, Yanks in showdown

NEW YORK (AP) — Having beaten New York Yankees ace Catfish Hunter in the game they had to win to stay alive, the Kansas City Royals go after their first World Series berth tonight against Ed Figueroa.

The Yankees, hoping for their first American League pennant in 12 years, tried to wrap it up with Hunter Wednesday. But the bid backfired when the Royals kayoed Hunter early.

That left Figueroa, a 19-game winner during the regular season but the loser in Game Two of these best-of-five AL playoffs, for tonight's deciding game. Today is Figueroa's 28th birthday.

The Royals forced the championship series to its limit by beating New York 7-4 Wednesday with a barrage of extra-base hits that included a double and triple by Hal McRae.

That overcame a pair of home runs by Graig Nettles of the Yankees and sent the two division champions back for one more game in this see-saw series.

Kansas City starting pitcher Larry Gura was knocked out in the third inning. Reliever Doug Bird of Pomona came on to gain the victory while Steve Mingori finished up and was credited with a save.

McRae, who broke out of a slump that had left him hitless in the first three games of the series, thought that beating Hunter in Game Four would give the Royals the edge tonight.

"I feel we have the momentum now," said McRae. "I think we're in the best position. We beat their best pitcher— their big gun. They won't have the same faith in the guy they throw tomorrow (Thursday night) that they had today (Wednesday)."

Yankees Manager Billy Martin bristled at that suggestion. "Figueroa will start the fifth game, and we have a lot of faith in him," he said.

What was Martin's reason for using Figueroa, who has lost three decisions to Kansas City this season, including the second game of the playoffs?

"Nineteen wins," snapped the Yankees manager. "That's a pretty good reason."

Ignored as a possible starter for the final game was lefthander Ken Holtzman, a veteran of playoff and World Series competition during his years in Oakland. "Holtzman hasn't been pitching well lately," said Martin. "I really didn't consider him."

If the Yankees had no plans for Holtzman, Royals Manager Whitey Herzog could have used him on loan. Asked about his fifth game starter, Herzog had to hedge Wednesday night.

"I have no idea right now," he said. "I have a choice of four— Dennis Leonard, Marty Pattin, Al Fitzmorris and Paul Splittorff. If I had Holtzman, I'd pitch him."

Splittorff, who pitched 5 2-3 innings of shutout relief in Game Two, would have had the assignment almost automatically if he had not had to warm up Wednesday. But he was anxious for another shot at the Yankees.

"I feel super about the possibility of starting the fifth game," he said. "I'm gonna relax and when I get to the ball park, I'll be ready."

Leonard was the second game starter and was knocked out early. But Herzog thinks the 17-game winner could do a creditable job. "He's a power pitcher and if he throws strikes he can give them trouble," the manager said.

Fitzmorris is the only Royals player who has not played in the series so far. "If I pitched, I'd feel strange," he said. "I think my bid was turned down."

Pattin faced just one batter in his only playoff appearance. "I'm ready," he said. "I should be strong. I couldn't get the ball over the plate the other night."

He would have been in trouble if he had. Herzog ordered an intentional walk to the only batter he faced.

Herzog shook up the Royals' lineup, benching regulars Jim Wohlford and Frank White. He sent McRae, usually the designated hitter, into right field, inserted veteran Cookie Rojas at second base and made Jamie Quirk, a rookie, the DH.

All of the moves worked. Rojas supplied two hits, igniting a pair of rallies. Quirk drove in two runs and scored a third. McRae scored twice after his two hits. And Patek collected three hits and three RBI.

McRae had been experimenting with his stance, trying to battle his way out of the slump. "I've been playing around with five or six stances," he said. "I had been lunging at the ball. I wasn't hanging back enough."

Rams hit again by QB injuries

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Coach Chuck Knox and his Los Angeles Rams face double trouble at best and maybe triple or quadruple in preparing for Sunday's invasion of the Chicago Bears.

The quarterback injury plague which has hit many top contenders in the National Football League, dealt the Rams a return blow when James Harris was declared out for at least two weeks with a shoulder bruise.

He was out before with a broken thumb and collected his newest injury when sacked 10 times as the San Francisco 49ers whipped the Rams 16-0 last Monday, the first time Los Angeles had been shut out at home since moving here in 1946.

They're now 3-1-1 this campaign compared to 4-1 for San Francisco in their division and 3-2 for the Bears who lost Sunday to Minnesota 21-20.

Pat Haden, the Rhodes Scholar from the University of Southern California, drew more schooling than he had expected when he played the whole game in a 10-10 deadlock with Minnesota on Sept. 19.

He went to the head of the class because Harris had the broken thumb and No. 1 understudy Ron Jaworski broke a shoulder against Atlanta on Sept. 12.

Harris took over again in a 24-10 victory over the New York Giants in the Rams' home opener, but now it must be either Jaworski or Haden again.

"Who starts at quarterback depends on how well Haden and Jaworki do in practice," Knox said. "Jaworski began throwing again last Wednesday."

If Jaworski is 100 per cent, he's expected to start, but Haden proved his worth in the latter stages of the Atlanta game and in the battle at Bloomington, Minn.

Knox and his staff have work to do with the offensive line which permitted the 10 sacks as the 49ers, led by Tommy Hart, poured in for the most in the history of the San Francisco team.

They've also a job in preventing a repetition of the four holding penalties called against Los Angeles in the first quarter when the Rams made their best offensive showing.

Knox wondered about the calls and also why coaches weren't informed the National Football League had instructed officials to keep a closer watch on possible holding infractions.

"There were four holding calls against us in the first 12 minutes and not another in the rest of the ball game," the coach mused. "We have not taught any different blocking techniques. We don't tell anybody to hold. Four holding penalties against one team is highly unusual.

"If they had continued at that pace we would have had 20 such penalties in the game."

Still, he admitted the 49ers had clearly whipped his Rams.

On the question of the holding penalties, he said, "Basically, we were doing the same thing later in the game we had been doing earlier."

About the loss to the 49ers, Knox said, "This is the time for self analysis. Nobody is ready to push the panic button or anything like that. We got whipped and want to find out why."

Damien kicker wins prep honor

Pete Fox, a senior at Damien High, has been named the Progress Bulletin's Prep Athlete of the Week for the fourth week of the current school year.

Fox, 17, is a 6-foot, 185-pound tight end who did not play football during his junior year. He was called into duty as a placekicker and kickoff specialist last week in the Spartans' 25-23 win over Pomona and responded with a 47-yard field goal to break a school record set last year.

He was honored along with the winners of the Athlete of the Week award for the first three weeks of the season at a dinner Wednesday night at the sponsoring Pomona Elks Lodge 789. The other athletes receiving plaques were Garey quarterback Al Clay, Chaffey water polo player Mike Evans and Bonita quarterback Sanford Coggins.

Besides booting the long-distance field goal, which brought the Spartans from behind for a two-point lead — their eventual winning margin — Fox caught three passes for a total of 47 yards and powered a pair of kickoffs into the end zone for touchbacks.

"I was quite pleased with Pete's blocking, too," said Damien head coach Dick Larson.

The dramatic kick — which came with four seconds left in the first half and Pomona leading 16-15 — was the first field goal attempt in a game for Fox, a La Verne resident.

"Our regular placekicker, Brian Sullivan, had a pulled muscle," explained Fox, who has started all four Spartan games at tight end.

Prep Athlete of the Week

"Sullivan's range in practice is about 55 or 56 yards," Larson said, "and Pete's is just about 46 or 47 yards. But Sullivan had the pulled muscle and Pete really came through."

Mike Sullivan, Brian's brother, kicked Damien's extra points Friday.

"Usually I do a little placekicking at practice," said Fox, "but before that game I didn't."

IROC loses James Hunt

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — James Hunt, suffering from an arm injury, has withdrawn from the International Race of Champions scheduled at Riverside this weekend.

But the British racing star, three points back of Niki Lauda in the Formula 1 championship standings, said Wednesday that he intends to compete in the final grand prix race of the season next week in Japan.

Hunt injured his left arm in an accident in the British Grand Prix at Brands Hatch last summer, and hurt it again in a minor crash at Trois Rivieres in Canada early last month. Then a week later, he was knocked into a wall at the initial IROC event in Michigan.

The latter mishap really banged the arm up, Hunt said. He said he was bounced across the track and hit the pit wall on the drivers side of the car.

Dr. E.C. Hughes Jr. of Syracuse, N.Y., Hunt's doctor, said the nerves, muscles and ligaments in Hunt's left arm were not healed sufficiently for him to race in the IROC event scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

"He told me to get plenty of rest and advised me strongly not to race at Riverside," Hunt said, adding that he really hated to miss the race.

Hunt said that he had taken cortisone shots for pain in the arm prior to the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen last weekend.

Leos like home talent

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne College, always high in the number of local players on its football team, is really homegrown this year.

The Leopards' roster shows 23 players from the Progress Bulletin circulation area. Of that number, 13 are starters and two more are the number one backups at their position.

Included on the list are two brothers and three younger brothers of former Leo athletes.

Steve and Bruce Hines are the sons of defensive coach Ben Hines. Naturally, they played at Bonita. Steve is a wide receiver. Bruce is a defensive back.

Also from La Verne are Jack Mauldin (DB) and running back Brad Frick, whose brother, Curtis, graduated last year after winning all conference honors four years.

Guard Carl Davis, slotback-quarterback Dave Maloof and tight end Craig Teter swell the La Verne contingent to seven in all.

Maloof is the younger brother of baseball star Jack Maloof now on the roster of the Minnesota Twins.

Linebackers John Herrera and Joe Jones and center-defensive end Jim Lacey all hail from Pomona.

Defensive backs Tim Morrison and Lindsey Brewer and middle guard Dave Poling are from Claremont.

Chino has contributed defensive backs Rich Hernandez and Bernie Wendling and linebacker Jim Nolen.

From Ontario came defensive back Tim Lehor, guard Lucio Sagasta and defensive end Johannes (Honnie) VanderKallen.

Alta Loma has two, linebacker Ole Ellingsen and split end Ted Pedvin.

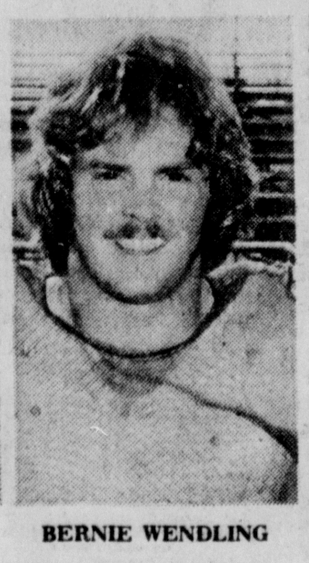
DAVE POLING



BERNIE WENDLING

Steve Hines, Frick, Davis, Courey, Sagasta and Pedvin are all starters on offense. Bruce Hines, Herrera, Ellingsen, Wendling, Poling, Hernandez and VanderKallen all start on defense.

Maloof is the number two quarterback. Lehor is the number one reserve in the defensive backfield.

"That's a good number all right," said coach Roland Ortmayer when appraised of the large number of local players. "The players we have are here because a friend or relative told them about our program.

"They know they'll get a chance to play. They can play the position they want. They can request the uniform number they want. And they know they'll have some fun playing football. It won't be a big hassle.

"They know coach Ortmayer hasn't tried to recruit somebody better because coach Ortmayer doesn't recruit. Our conference says we can write or telephone a prospect but we can't visit them.

"They know Coach Ortmayer hasn't written or called anybody. I've had some come and visit me. But that's because someone, a friend or relative, told them to."

And that's the way Ortmayer collects a good number of football players including a number of good football players every year.

Names such as Hanawalt, Drake and Frick are common at La Verne. Maloof and VanderKallen are also well known. Honnie VanderKallen is following older brothers Francis (DE) and Roy (all conference running back).

Football is pretty much a family affair at La Verne College. It's the atmosphere Ortmayer and his program have brought about. Everyone is welcome. Everyone or anyone that wants to can play. You don't join the team. You become a member of the family.

Poly's Costa plans to start Saturday

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

If Leo Costa has anything to say about it, he will be the starting quarterback Saturday afternoon when Cal Poly tackles undefeated Northern Arizona at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Coach Andy Vinci said Monday Costa will probably not be available for this game because of a jammed thumb suffered in last week's frustrating 21-10 loss to North Texas State.

But Costa, who is quite a competitor, plans to be throwing the football against the Lumberjacks.

"It's getting better every day," Costa said about the thumb. "I should be ready to go by Saturday."

If Costa can't make it, Vinci will start seldom-used Sammy Ross, a sophomore who showed plenty of potential when he got the chance to play in the fourth quarter two weeks ago at Mississippi State.

"Sammy can do the job," Costa said about his back-up. "The only thing he needs is more confidence and he will get that with more playing time."

This has been a frustrating season for Poly and especially Costa since he is one of the captains.

The Broncos start the second half of the season still searching for their first victory.

The current 0-4-1 record is anything for satisfying.

"It seems like we haven't received a break all season," Costa said. "This season has been really wierd. This tough luck has got to change. We have too much talent on this club for things to go on like this. In fact, I have never played on a team with this much talent."

Of course, a big reason for Poly's winless season has been the tough schedule. Three of the first five opponents play on the Division 1 level.

"I know playing these tough teams has improved us," the senior from Visalia said. "It has been good experience for us."

Right now, he hopes to use the experience for victories as time is running out on Poly if it hopes to accomplish anything this season.

"Our morale is still good," the quarterback added. "We're more frustrated than down."

Costa's passing statistics are right on form compared to his junior campaign when he completed 97 of 192 passes for 1,304 yards. At the midway point this season, Leo has connected on 48 of 99 passes for 554 yards.

'Hen, Stag kickers win

The Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd soccer teams set up their Saturday showdown with SCIAC wins Wednesday afternoon.

Pomona-Pitzer downed Occidental 9-1 at Oxy while Claremont-Mudd defeated Cal Tech 5-1 at Cal Tech. The Sagehens are now 5-0 in SCIAC play while the Stags stand at 4-1.

Ron Thomas and Humberto Valdivia, with two goals apiece, led P-P to victory. Leon Thanopoulos chipped in with a goal and two assists in the easy win.

David Goldstein booted home three scores to pace C-M past Cal Tech. David Stark and Seungho Lee added the other Stag goals.

The two local soccer powers meet Saturday at 2 p.m. at Claremont-Mudd, with first place in the SCIAC at stake.

Morgan takes scoring lead

Kevin Morgan of Walnut High has regained the prep scoring lead that he relinquished a week ago to Bonita's Sanford Coggins.

The Mustang running back scored two touchdowns last week to give him a total of 44 points on the year, six ahead of the Bonita quarterback. Morgan has seven touchdowns and one two-point conversion while Coggins has six TDs and a two-pointer.

Damien fullback Leo Burke ranks third with 32 points and Alta Loma running back Bill Pisciuneri is fourth with 30.

Alta Loma, which leads all valley teams in both offense and defense, has three players among the top 10 scorers. Joining Pisciuneri are Rob Ward, in a four-way tie for fifth place with 24 points, and Lars Fryland, 10th with 21.

Fryland, still the only placekicker among the top 10 scorers, has three field goals and 12 extra points to his credit.

Alta Loma has scored 119 points in its four games while allowing just 15 — that's an average of 29.8 points scored and 3.8 allowed.

Chaffey vaulted from nowhere to sixth place among the valley's scorers with a 49-14 walloping of Arcadia last week.

Six teams — Alta Loma, Bonita, Chaffey, Garey, San Dimas and Walnut — are among the leaders in both offense and defense.

THE FIRST ROUND OF WORLD CUP PLAY between North American entries Mexica, Canada and the United States is now history . . . .and what surprising history it is with favorites Mexico being tied by our team, and losing 1-0 to Canada last Sunday in Vancouver, B.C. Together with the 0-0 tie between the Canadians and our boys the point system in this round-robin elimination tourney finds Canada atop with three, the United States second with two and Mexico holding onto the bottom with one.

THE SECOND ROUND will be tougher for Canada and the United States who will have to go into the Mexican high altitude web with the United States meeting Mexico at 7,200 foot Puebla, and the Canadians facing an even more challenging Oct. 27 game at Toluca where the playing field awaits their sea-level lungs at 8,712 feet. That's up! And that's where our Olympic team fell before Mexico by 8-0. . . . a Mexican team that didn't make the final four at Montreal.

THE UNITED STATES goes against Canada on Oct. 20 at Seattle's Kingdome which will find as many, if not more, Canadians on hand to root for their World Cup aspirants. It's never been this close before. We must be improving.

MOST OF THE EUROPEAN PAIRINGS APPEAR "STACKED," as do the South American seedings where Brazil, Uruguay and Chile are kept separated in preliminary eliminations and Argentina is automatically "in" as 1978 host. The Nov. 11, 1976 clash between Italy and England promises to be one of the most vital early games and by the time they conclude the home-and-home run on Nov. 16 of 1977 we will know whether it is England or Italy who will go on to Argentina. The other two, Finland and Luxemburg, could cause an uproar if they upset the apple cart but it's not likely.

THERE IS MUCH INTEREST IN THE GROUP encasing Iceland, Belgium, Holland and Northern Ireland . . . a group showcasing the great stars of Belgium and Holland and the sudden inclusion of George Best to the Irish World Cup squad. He was added to the squad by the newly-appointed Irish coach, Danny Blanchflower, himself a noted Irish World Cupper and star of the 1958 series in Sweden. Blanchflower was an individualist and was given his head as leader of the Double Winners Tottenham of London.

Best is his kind of man and the union should be absorbing to observe. Best left the United States in good physical condition and joined up with Fulham, London's famed 2nd division club where he and Rodney Marsh of Tampa Bay and Bobby Moore of San Antonio Thunders are doubling the attendance figures. Best figures to return to the Aztecs next summer but if Northern Ireland survives against Cruyff, Rep and Neeskens the Irish Flash may find it hard to find time for American action. He's playing beautifully back on the Auld Sod altho he was ejected last week for disagreeing with the referee's viewpoint on the many fouls committed against him. That's George!

FRANZ BECKENBAUER got 287 votes to take West Germany's Footballer of the Year award over Bonhof and Maier with 57 and 55 respectively. It was the 4th time for The Kaiser of Bayern Munich who also copped it in '66, '68, and '74.

EAST GERMANY'S OLYMPIC AND WORLD CUP GOALIE Jurgen Croy won the Footballer award for East Germany. He has represented the Eastern section of Germany 73 times in international matches and was strong in the win over West Germany in the 1974 World Cup . . . which was ultimately won by West Germany.

BAYERN MUNICH AND BORUSSIA MONCHENGLADBACH have each won four of the last eight West German League titles but are looking "up" at Cologne (Koln) who are doing better than at any time since their title year in 1964 due perhaps to the leadership of Hennes Weisweiler who dropped the reins at Barcelona when faced with a power struggle with Johan Cruyff. The Flying Dutchman said, "Either Hennes goes or I go" . . . and Hennes went! Germany's Bundesliga now uses 33 foreign players; nine Danes, nine Yugoslavs, six Swedes, three Austrians, two Dutchmen and one Belgian, Ghanan, Hungarian and Frenchman.

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT our Pomona Pitzer elevenplus will journey down Route 57 (unless they prefer the Old Butterfield Trail thru Brea Canyon) on Oct. 27 for a tough one against Dennis Checkett's Division One Cal State Fullerton. Checkett's boys just held NCAA champs San Francisco to a 1-1 draw up north last week and should give the Pomonans a challenging game in what is being hailed as "The Pomona Bowl." Kids showing up in soccer uniforms will be admitted free in an effort to present some class soccer before the kids eyes.

THE GAME IS SET FOR a pleasant nitetime showing at Santa Ana Bowl in Santa Ana and valley fans will have a chance to further follow the soccer fortunes of two 'ex-valley citizens" who learned their soccer on Pomona Valley fields . . . namely, Juan Rodriquez, backbone of Chino High's teams, and Dave Segura, Ganesha's top scorer and also extra-point and field-goal specialist for the football (American style) team.

IN THE SOCCER MEANTIME . . . check your daily to learn the skeds of the colleges playing regularly in our area . . . La Verne College, Claremont College, Pomona College, Mount SAC, Chaffey College who all bring respected opponents into our field of vision here. It's difficult to gather all pertinent information and to present it at a time it will be effective but the kicking game is going full blast around here . . . including multiple AYSO and Pacific Soccer League games every Saturday on all available plots of turf. Keep in mind ye coaches and parents . . . .that the little ole game of soccer is now presenting COLLEGE SOCCER scholarships and that one of your players has as good a chance as anyone.

Saints play tonight

San Dimas High's football team will get the jump on the rest of the Hacienda League this week, as the Saints will be in action tonight vs. Gladstone at Citrus College.

Kickoff time is set for 8 p.m. The other three Hacienda tilts are all slated for Friday.

The Saints will carry a spotless 2-0 league mark into this evening's game. Gladstone is winless in league and on the year.

In fact, the Gladiators have not won a game in their last 20 tries, a losing string dating back to the early part of the 1974 season. That 20-game streak is one of the longest in CIF ranks.

However, the Glads do appear to be a much-improved team this year. They have played well in two league games, dropping a narrow 12-7 decision to Ontario and staying with powerful Royal Oak, 26-14.

Those two results are a far cry from last year, when the Gladiators gave up an average of 40 points per outing while scoring only six.

Even so, the Saints, fresh from a big win over rival Bonita, don't figure to stumble tonight.

Gladstone must find a way to stop the San Dimas rushing attack, something no team has been able to do in four games this fall. Leading the way has been fullback Bob Pleasant, with 370 yards, and halfback Perry Aris, with 211 yards. Saint quarterback Don Hargett has also showed some nifty footwork of late, and has acquired 131 yards on the ground in addition to 100 yards passing the football, something the Saints do little of.

Even if the Glads do stop the Saint offense, there's no guarantee they will score themselves. A rugged S.D. defense has been tough against both the run and the pass so far this year.

The Gladstone offense will be led by quarterback Bobby Alvarez, who had 227 yards through the air vs. Royal Oak last week. However, Alvarez completed only eight of 29 passes, and the Gladiator rushing attack was shut down completely.

P-P women win opener

The Pomona-Pitzer women's volleyball team opened SCIAC play with a victory Wednesday afternoon, downing visiting Redlands 15-10, 15-13.

The win also evened the locals' season mark at 3-3.

Pomona-Pitzer's next home match will be next Tuesday, when it will host Claremont-Mudd. Starting time is set for 7 p.m. at Pomona College.

Owls improve with each outing

A lot of people wrote Citrus College off this fall when the Owls lost last year's offensive stars quarterback Herb Daniel and running back Roy Prather via graduation.

Still others felt the Owls were in for a rough season when they dropped a narrow 18-14 decision to Fullerton in their grid opener this year.

However, the Owls have been quietly rebuilding and regrouping following that defeat, and all of a sudden they are right back where they always seem to be, in the favorite's role to cop the Mission Conference title.

Coach John Strycula's squad proved it is a force to be reckoned with last Saturday by ripping previously unbeaten Palomar, 42-14.

That result means that the Owls have now outscored opponents 96-48 on the year even with the loss to Fullerton.

Moreover, the Palomar outing proved that the Owls have that special ingredient of all good teams — depth.

Strycula substituted freely in the contest and had to be pleased with the result. Especially impressive was the play of two reserve running backs, Jim Goodwin and Jim Donaldson.

Goodwin, who hails from Texas, carried the ball 14 times vs. the Comets for 130 yards, all of that yardage in the second half. Donaldson, the former Montclair High grid star, saw his first action as an Owl and responded with 29 yards in six carries.

The Citrus offensive starters continued to look sharp. Quarterback Dale Bunn, who has filled very capably the shoes of the departed Daniel, has proven to be a dual threat in the Owls' backfield. Bunn, a transfer from the U. of Hawaii, has rushed for 247 yards on 55 totes (a 4.5 average gain per carry) and has also completed 28 passes for 425 yards and three touchdowns.

Obie Graves and Raymond Butler, subs last year behind Prather and Herbie Holmes, have blossomed into their own this fall.

Graves, from Monrovia, has rushed 81 times so far this season for 416 yards, one of the top figures in the conference. He has also added 80 yards on five pass receptions.

Butler, the former Pomona High star, has amassed 176 yards rushing and has been Bunn's favorite pass receiver, with seven catches for 61 yards. Butler has also returned eight kickoffs for 184 yards to lead the Owls in that catagory as well.

"We were glad to get everybody in because you never know when you're going to need them," Strycula said about the Palomar outing. "In addition, there's more spirit among the players when they've all played."

Strycula's confidence in his rebuilt defensive unit is also growing.

"We figured they (Palomar) would have to throw because we believed they couldn't make it on the ground against us," the veteran Citrus mentor noted.

The Comets gained only 91 yards rushing (16 in the first half) despite coming into the game with the conference's best rushing average per game, 252. The Owls also picked off three Palomar passes, and the only two Comet scores were set up by fumble recoveries deep in Citrus territory.

The other two local junior college football teams, Mt. San Antonio and Chaffey, also impressed in league openers last week. The Mounties beat Santa Ana 13-6 behind a strong defensive effort while Chaffey also rode a tough defense to a 16-0 blanking of Riverside City College.

With Saturday's effort, the Mounties took over the top spot in the South Coast Conference team statistics for defense. MSAC has allowed an average of only 222.0 yards per contest in putting together a 4-0-1 mark. Next toughest defense in the SCC is Orange Coast, with a 248.3 average.

The Mounties are also the top rushing team in the conference behind their newly-installed Veer attack. Mountie runners have rushed for 908 yards in five contests, an average of 181.6 yards per outing.

Individually, Mike Hill ranks third in the conference in rushing with his 4.8 yards per tote average. The Mountie soph stands at second in the SCC in total rushing yardage with 458, behind Fullerton's Monty Bullerdick, who has 555 yards.

Quarterback Brian Bethke is fifth in the league in total offense, and also fifth in scoring with 18 points. Mike Hall, a freshman from Pomona, stands second in the loop in kickoff return yardage with 214

'Pack scores pool triumph

Claremont High's water polo squad opened San Antonio League play on a winning note Wednesday, downing host Montclair 14-9.

The win upped the Wolfpack season record to 7-4.

Chuck Abbott, with five goals, and Marty Jackson and John Borland, with three apiece, led the 'Pack swimmers. Matt Tedder and John Hartman topped Montclair scoring with three goals each.

Costa threw for 10 touchdowns last year but has only one so far this year. And he has already been intercepted eight times this year after having only 10 in 11 games last year. The interceptions proved costly in the stunning 22-19 loss to San Francisco State.

"I can't understand it," Costa said. "It has just been happening. It's something I can't worry about. One thing I was doing wrong was not getting rid of the ball soon enough."

Besides quarterbacking, Costa is also handling the punter. In a surprise move, Vinci had Costa take care of the punting at North Texas State and he responded with a 40.5 average.

"I found out about about the middle of the week," Costa said. "It surprised me because I hadn't punted before until a few times at the end of last season. That one quick kick I got off for 46 yards really helped."

Costa enjoyed his best game of the season at North Texas State.

Hayden Fry, the North Texas coach, complimented Costa after the game by saying, "We faced one of the best quarterbacks we'll see this year. He's a good passer and a good elusive runner.

Costa has only five more games at Poly. His future will be either working for his father on the family's big dairy farm in the San Joaquin Valley, going into coaching or trying a professional career.

The success of former Poly quarterback Jim Zorn with the Seattle Seahawks has provided some inspiration.

home Saturday evening. Flagstaff isn't an easy place to get to.

To illusrate how tough the schedule is this year, the opponents have enjoyed a 27-15-3 overall record. Three of the final five foes — Northern Arizona, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Puget Sound — are still unbeaten.

Poly has been outscored, 38-0, in the second quarter this year and 36-3 in the fourth period.

Quotes

"It doesn't look like the sport has been ruined." — Dick Moss, counsel for the baseball players' association, on only 26 players choosing to become free agents instead of the 200 or so that management had predicted could create chaos.

"I'm not running a kindergarten any more. I won't be as tolerant as I've been in the past." — John McNamara after being rehired as manager of the San Diego Padres.

"I was there for a long time. Now I guess I'll just have to look for another job." — Red Schoendienst, fired as St. Louis Cards' manager after 12 years.

Allen out in Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After an ill-attended playoff homecoming Wednesday, the Philadelphia Phillies learned that Manager Danny Ozark will be back on the job next year, but controversial first baseman Dick Allen will not.

"There is no way he is not coming back to manage this ball club," Phils Personnel Director Paul Owens said after Cincinnati knocked out Philadelphia 3-0 in the best-of-five National League playoff series.

Owens said first base is one area he'd like to improve, and he said he will not try to sign Allen for another year.

Allen has been the center of several controversies which have threatened to disrupt team unity, and, unless another team is willing to take a chance, his major league career may be over.

Allen, 34, came to the Phillies in 1964 and spent seven tempestuous years here, then had tours with St. Louis, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox before returning amid great fanfare in 1975.

He was twice on the disabled list this year and finished the season at .268, with 15 home runs and 49 RBI. His career average is .290, with 346 home runs and 1,088 RBI.

While the front office pondered 1977, a meager crowd of about 75 fans greeted the glumfaced Phils when they stepped from their jetliner shortly after noon Wednesday.

Ozark's two-year contract expired this season, but Owens said there never was any doubt about the manager's return.

Owens also said he was impressed with the way Ozark handled himself when the Phillies' Eastern Division lead dwindled in September from 15½ to three games.

"He never panicked," Owens said. "If anything, he held up when others didn't look too steady."

As to the formal signing, Owens said, "we'll announce it when everything quiets down. I want him to get the credit due him."

Kings bounce back to tie Toronto, 4-4

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs let a 4-0 lead over the Los Angeles Kings go to their head. And as a result, they had to settle for a 4-4 tie.

While the Kings showed bad form throughout the first two periods Wednesday night, goalie Robie Vachon bore the brunt of the Maples Leafs' offense.

The Toronto team fired two of 17 shots past Vachon in the first 20 minutes. And only 26 minutes had elaped before the Maple Leafs made it 4-0.

Toronto's first score came on a blistering drive by Darryl Sittler that slammed into the post and caromed into the net.

Later, Sittler passed the puck to Errol Thompson, giving him an open shot for the net. Stan Weir made it 4-0 only 26 minutes into the game.

The Kings' Butch Goring scored on a power play halfway through the second period, but it seemed for a while as if that was all the Kings were going to accomplish.

Then, with only 11 minutes left in the game, the Kings began their final push.

Marcel Dionne outraced defenseman Bob Neely, and although the puck was rolling on rolling on its side, shot it past Toronto's goalie Gord McRae.

Four minutes later, Dionne fired another shot from the same spot, sending the puck bouncing off McRae's pad and into the net, to narrow the score to 4-3.

A goal by Tommy Williams — his third in the National Hockey League — came on a slap shot from the left faceoff circle that beat McRae high on the short side.

Meantime in Montreal, National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell on Wednesday announced fines of $9,750 against the Philadelphia Flyers and the Kings for two benchclearing incidents in a game Sunday.

In addition, Campbell suspended the Flyers' Bob Kelly and Andre Dupont from their team's game against the Montreal Canadiens.

Kings' coach Bob Pulford was fined $350 by Campbell for stepping onto the ice to grab linesman John Brown. Pulford was then ejected from the game over the incident — the first time in nine years a coach has been ordered out of a game.

The Flyers were fined $4,000 as a team in the first benchclearing incident, which began when Dupont left the bench. They were fined $3,000 in the second incident, which was started by Kelly.

Then Kings left the bench each time and were fined $200 each. Four others involved in only one of the brawls were fined $100.

Quotes

"As of now, I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith." — Muhammad Ali in announcing at a news conference in Istanbul that he would retire as world heavyweight champion.

"I know I won it, you know I won it. I think even Ali knows I won it. I was robbed—what else can I say?" — Ken Norton, commenting on the close 15-round decision he lost to Muhammad Ali in their title fight at Yankee Stadium.

"Some of us wondered why they were pitching Gura. We found out. He goes out there and sticks the ball where the sun doesn't shine." — Oakland third baseman Sal Bando on Kansas City pitcher Larry Gura, who threw a four-hit shutout against the A's to clinch a tie in the AL West for the Royals.

Net victory for Upland

Upland High advanced its San Antonio League girls' tennis ledger to 4-1 Wednesday with a 6-0 blanking of host Chino.

The Upland girls are now 7-1 on the year, and in second place in the SAL behind Claremont. The doubles team of Linda McKeon and Mug Ogg, with a perfect 10-0 match, sparked Upland's win Wednesday.

Movie spurs demand for shark meat

DETROIT (AP) — Norm Swinkowski, sales manager at O'Neil and Hoffner Fisheries, says since the release of the movie "Jaws" his firm has been inundated by demands from local restaurants for shark meat.

"It started out as just a curiosity thing, people ordering shark as a novelty item," Swinkowski said. "But now they're reordering because they've become hooked on its taste."

He said local demand for shark meat now exceeds supply, and it appears only as a specialty item on the menus of scattered restaurants. Shark is similar in shape and texture to swordfish, and is usually broiled, baked or deep-fried, he said.

Learns to swim, water ski

Grandmother finds new horizons at 72

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was quite an eventful summer for one 72-year-old grandmother who usually spends her spare time making macrame and other handicrafts.

She not only learned to swim for the first time, but to water ski, too.

For several years, Veronica Moore, a widow who came to California from her native Hungary and speaks little English, had accompanied her daughter and son-in-law, Ethel and Charles Naray, and their family on summer trips to the beach.

When the Narays of suburban Agoura announced last spring that they planned to vacation at Clear Lake in Northern California, Mrs. Moore decided that this was one summer she wasn't going to stay behind cooking while everyone else went swimming, boating and water skiing.

She talked grandson Charlie, 15, into swimming lessons in his family's backyard pool. After mastering that, the diminutive grandmother declared — to the family's amazement — that she was ready to learn to water ski.

"When mother said she wanted to water ski, we just laughed," said Mrs. Naray. "We thought she was kidding. I mean, really...Then we realized she was serious."

The 4-10 Mrs. Moore — who weighs slightly more than 100 pounds soaking wet — turned again to grandson Charlie for help.

"We had to rent some skis for mother because the bindings on ours were much too large," said Mrs. Naray. "The man we rented the skis from was shocked...He couldn't believe it. Then he told us we were crazy to get skis for a 72-year-old woman."

The skis, said Mrs. Naray, "almost swallowed mother up," but with great determination and a life jacket, Mrs. Moore excitedly got up on them for the first time at Clear Lake.

Soon she was whizzing around the water like a teenager, going up to a mile or more at a time. She took some spills, as most beginners do, but got up eager to try again.

Now that she has conquered two new horizons, what lies ahead for Mrs. Moore.

"It's hard telling," sighed Mrs. Naray.

Snow skiing, maybe?

Pierced ear

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — During a fight with another cat, Sugar, an 11-year-old tiger cat belonging to Jan Montesino, 15, had his ear pierced.

Sugar turned this misfortune to an advantage, however. The cat now wears an earring through the hole.

Truck driver finds a man in his trash

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Johnson delivered a load of trash to the city dump Wednesday, unloaded and quickly called to tell police there was a man in the squeezed up debris.

The passenger identified himself as Thomas Smith, 46, and told officers he lives at a small downtown hotel. Hospital attendants said he escaped serious injury and was in satisfactory condition.

Johnson said he picked up his load of trash outside a department store and hauled it to the dump about 4 a.m.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS A WOLVERINE?"

MARY HOELSCHER
INDEPENDENCE, MO

A. THE WOLVERINE IS THE BIGGEST MEMBER OF THE WEASEL FAMILY. IT RESEMBLES A SMALL BEAR AND IS ARMED WITH A SKUNK-LIKE SCENT FOR DEFENSE.

Through the northern forests of the world prowls the sly and cunning wolverine.

Largest member of the weasel family, this furry mammal may grow to be about 3½ feet long and weigh 30 pounds.

With its dark, shaggy hair, short, bushy tail and big feet, the wolverine looks like a small bear.

Like its weasel cousins, the wolverine has a skunklike scent for defense. Because of this, it is often called a skunk bear.

The wolverine is noted for its craftiness, strength, and appetite.

It is a bold hunter and preys on all manner of small animals, such as squirrels and rabbits, and does not hesitate to attack deer and other animals many times its size.

No animal except man hunts the fierce wolverine. Even the wolf and cougar will give way to the raging fury of a wolverine.

This crafty thief is the trapper's worst enemy. It follows the trapper and skillfully steals the bait, or eats the animals caught in the traps.

World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061

Pensioners get probation for illegal sale of guns

FRESNO (AP) - Two men have been sentenced after pleading guilty to charges of selling firearms without a license.

Both were among six elderly pensioners indicted by a federal grand jury last month.

Federal Court Judge M.D. Crocker Tuesday sentenced Harry Collins, 75, of Exeter, to two years probation subject to search for firearms by probation officers.

Crocker sentenced Eulogio Hernandez of Fresno to one year unsupervised probation and fined him $100.

Two other defendants, Lester Slate, 63, of Exeter, and Otis Farley, 66, of Tulare, received similar sentences Sept. 27.

Trials will be held for two others who pleaded innocent.

Nine missions

From 1769-1782, Fra Junipero Serra founded nine Franciscan missions in California.

Sign language for the defense

Judge sets murder trial for deaf mute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When James Robert Hunt, a deaf-mute, was charged with murder more than two years ago, the judge delayed his trial so Hunt could learn sign language and assist in his defense.

Now the 24-year-old Frankfort, Ohio, man is due to go on trial Nov. 8 in Chillicothe, where he is accused of beating to death Ruth Arledge, 56, a neighbor, in May 1974.

"The reason why this fellow was committed was that he was unable to understand the charge against him," explained Judge J. Donald Ratcliff of the Ross County Common Pleas Court. "The fellow was not insane, but because of the communication handicap he could not counsel in his own defense."

Hunt, who lost his voice and hearing following an illness when he was 18 months old, was committed to Lima State Hospital under Ohio insanity laws.

Judge Ratcliff admits to using a broad interpretation of that law. But he said he believes committing Hunt to a mental institution was in Hunt's best interest, and that he will benefit at the trial from having learned universal sign language.

The judge said there was no precedent in Ohio for the order.

However, Hunt's mother, Joyce, argues that the decision was "unfair to him, an injustice to him. I feel they think they had an easy thing with Bobby." And she argued that her son could communicate using a crude sign language his parents had taught him at home.

Ratcliff said he had never intended for Hunt to remain in an institution indefinitely.

"My order stated that he was to be committed until he was able to communicate, but no longer than two years," he said.

Buoy function

The Coast Guard says the primary function of buoys is to warn mariners of some danger, some obstruction or change in sea bottom contours, or to mark channels.

Job-sharing: Two heads under one hat

By MARY FIESS
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Pat Rehberg likes the challenge of being in charge. But she hates the headaches that accompany a top executive's job.

Her friend Dolores Brosnan values a high-level position for the power it gives to change things. But a fulltime work schedule cramps her community-oriented lifestyle.

Alone, they were wishful thinkers. Together, they have found the perfect job.

The two women — possessing very different personalities and skills — fit comfortably into one executive seat, the director's chair at the Binghamton YWCA.

Each has the title of director. But each only works part-time, 25 hours a week on the average. They share the salary, responsibilities, problems, recognition and — to Mrs. Rehberg's delight — the headaches that come with the job.

It's a concept known as "jobsharing" or "job-pairing." Two people are hired to fill one slot. And they get to perform the kind of work that is usually not available on a part-time basis.

The idea has been tried on a limited basis across the country and it is regarded as a work alternative especially geared to women's needs.

At a conference on alternative work schedules here recently, Mrs. Rehberg and Mrs. Brosnan, both of Binghamton, talked about how they have managed their unusual work arrangement.

Each woman works three 9-to-5 days during the regular work week and takes turns attending night meetings and other job-related events. On the one day a week that their office schedules overlap, they thrash out any problems that need their joint attention.

Though they try to share the decision-making process as much as possible, each woman makes decisions on her own as they are required. Both women say they have not experienced any of the problems usually associated with having two bosses in one office.

"For job-pairing to work, there has to be confidence and respect in each partner," said Mrs. Rehberg. "It also takes a certain lack of ego."

Both quickly tick off the advantages of having two brains under one hat.

"We have more courage to try new things. We avoid a lot of executive tension because we can hash things out together," said Mrs. Brosnan.

"Dolores is a visionary. I'm better at planning how to get there. Now how often do you have both things in one person?" said Mrs. Rehberg.

Together the women have tried to change the Binghamton Y from a "craft program for women" to a "social movement" center, serving the needs of all women, working, single, divorced and married.

Mrs. Rehberg, 38, the mother of two young children, finds the job "perfect for this time of my life." Mrs. Brosnan, 40, a mother of three, who had held a fulltime supervisory position before going to the Y, doubts she will go back to fulltime work.

In the meantime, the YWCA director's hat sits easily on both heads.

Business Women's week set

In celebration of National Business Women's Week, the Pomona Business and Professional Women's Club has invited all women's organizations in the community to attend a Town Hall meeting scheduled at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, at Griswold's Indian Hill Restaurant in Claremont.

National Business Women's Week is an annual event of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to spotlight the activities and contributions of working women in their communities and this year the event is observed next week.

The Town Hall meeting is open to the public and will be conducted by the Claremont League of Women Voters. A discussion will be given on each of the issues on the November ballot with the meeting open to questions from the audience later. Reservations for the meeting may be made with Dee Hill, 981-3120.

Another event scheduled next week is the meeting of the Sierra Mar District in Anaheim. Virginia Butler, Jacqueline Gage and Geraldine Lee will represent the local club. Special recognition will be given to 25-year members of the Pomona club at that time. Receiving recognition will be Evelyn Kridler, Julia Arri, Dr. Patricia Tudbury, Wilma Temple, Agnes Gowen and Mabel Glenn, who is the only charter member of the Pomona club. Also attending from the local club will be Betty Eagon, Ada Malette, Mary Donnelly, Lydia Boroch and Shirley Durant.

DR. JOYCE BROTHERS, PB COLUMNIST

Columnist guest at area luncheon

A psychologist, who is an NBC radio network personality and syndicated columnist appearing daily in the Progress Bulletin, will be the speaker Tuesday when San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary presents her at a luncheon.

She is Dr. Joyce Brothers and her talk will revolve around her most recent book "Better Than Ever." The luncheon is scheduled at noon at Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont.

Reservations may be made by calling 985-1509.

The speaker, who is also an author, business consultant, wife and mother, has received recognition for her significant activities and outstanding influence from many quarters. Most recently, and for the sixth year, she is listed in George Gallup's annual poll of most admired women.

A United Press International poll named her one of the 10 most influential American women, and a survey conducted by the Greenwich College Research Center listed her among the 10 women most admired by college students.

As a consultant to the business world, Dr. Brothers creates and performs in films and seminars designed for corporate personnel training programs. She is a frequent guest on network television programs and panel shows.

For six years she was a member of the faculties of Hunter College and Columbia University and now is a frequent lecturer at universities across the country. She is a graduate of Cornell University and received her Ph. D. from Columbia University. She is married to Dr. Milton Brothers, an internist. They have a daughter, Lisa, and reside in New York City.

Insurance policies increasing

Are life insurance companies paying out more in death payments each year because more people are dying?

No, says the American Council of Life Insurance. The almost uninterrupted rise in death payments over the years is due to steady growth in life insurance ownership despite a generally downward trend in death rates.

Between 1950 and 1975, the number of policyholders increased by 65 percent, and the life insurance in force multiplied ninefold, reports the Council. The death rate declined by 24 percent during the same period.

In 1975, life insurance companies paid out some $9.2 billion dollars to beneficiaries of policyholders who died. The amount is $307 million more than that paid out during the previous year, continuing the trend in steadily rising life insurance payments over the past 32 years, reports the Council.

Rice-Spence vows repeated in church

MRS. ROBERT RICE

The Lincoln Avenue Community Reformed Church in Pomona was the setting for the marriage of Miss Sandra Spence and Robert Rice of Pomona. The couple was wed by the Rev. Donald Brandt in an afternoon double-ring ceremony followed by a reception in the church hall.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terence A. Spence of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Rice of Pomona.

Miss Judy Spence, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. Serving as best man was Gary Rice of Ontario. Other attendants were Monica Poulter of Pomona, Denise Rice, sister of the bridegroom, of Upland, Tom Mulligan of Leucadia and George Pinney of Pomona.

The newlyweds honeymooned in northern California and are now at home in Chino.

FAMILY WEEKLY

"It's Not Always Easy Being Beautiful"

The wife of the Six-Million-Dollar Man says she loves being a homemaker but resents having her looks exploited.

One thing you can say for sure about Farah Fawcett-Majors: she looks just like a star. And once the world got a good look, the solid gold Hollywood forefinger started beckoning. Soon Farah was sipping her new fame like syrup through a straw as she sampled television and movie roles. But there's always been a good deal of her life to live away from the glamour of being a gorgeous girl success. And, maybe surprisingly, the elegant star talks sense. This week, she writes for FAMILY WEEKLY about how she manages her marriage to actor Lee Majors (it's difficult working out a schedule in a two-star family), about competition and her plans for the future. Plus — Farah speaks out about the "hindrance" of being beautiful. We don't know quite what to say to that but to urge you to read our interview exclusive — and see how far your sympathies can stretch.

Is reason insecurity?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband, a successful business man in his mid-40s, is attracted to, and, has had several affairs with his young secretaries. I choose to ignore the affairs because I know they won't last, but it's getting silly and expensive since he must constantly hire new secretaries and pay off the old. — N.W.

Dear N.W.: Your husband may be an insecure male who doubts his abilities as a lover and so feels less threatened with an unsophisticated, sexually inexperienced, young woman than he does with you. If you are sexually demanding or are critical of him as a lover he may try to regain his confidence by selecting responsive younger women.

His motives in chasing young women may be to recapture his youth, and to try to see himself through their eyes as a worldly-wise, extremely successful he-man.

You can help by making him feel sexually attractive. However, you can't expect to make him mature overnight.

His adultery may be rebellion against you, especially if he is careful to make sure you know about his adventures. He may be saying . . . "Pay attention! Don't you care? Please, care!" To him, your passive reaction may mean that you consider him so worthless that you don't care. So, he will simply continue on his merry-go-round.

Your reaction is not normal for a woman who loves her husband as a man, not just as a provider. Examine your own feelings and have an open, honest discussion with your husband to try to analyze how you feel about each other and what you both want out of a future life together.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've been organizing the men in my neighborhood to get their wives back into the home and to fight women's lib.

I divorced one woman because she was too aggressive and domineering and I'm determined to keep my present wife in line. I don't mean she must always bow low, but I think she should never forget that she's different from a man . . . not inferior necessarily, but different. — T.M.

Dear T.M.: I'd like to know how your present wife and the men in the neighborhood react to your views. Many men are beginning to discover that women's liberation can free men too. This they believe, is especially true in jobs, but it also applies to their family life and sex life.

When either partner expects the other to be submissive and passive most of the time, there is apt to be conflict unless the submissive mate has a psychological need to be dominated. Even then, there is often a hidden resentment that may erupt in other ways if it is never expressed verbally.

I think it's important for your own mental health to question why you feel so threatened by a move toward equal rights. This might be a good topic for discussion if you do organize a group of men in your neighborhood. It might help the men to gain insight into themselves, their own anxieties and insecurities, and thereby lead to personal growth.

Draws women

NEW YORK (AP) — Women make up more than 40 per cent of the first class at New York's newest school, the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law of Yeshiva University. There are 265 students enrolled in the new law school.

The school's initial faculty is composed of 13 legal scholars and practitioners, one third of whom are women. It includes a husband and wife team: Eva H. Hanks, who has taught at Rutgers University School of Law, and John L. Hanks, who was associate professor of law at Cleveland State University, Cleveland-Marshall College of Law.

MR. AND MRS. SAM MANOR

Sam Manors mark 60th anniversary

At a dinner in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Earl Volkamer in Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Manor of La Verne celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

The Manors, who have lived in this area for seven years, are former residents of Des Moines, where they were married Sept. 5, 1916. Cohosting the event were their son-in-law and granddaughter.

The Manors have another daughter, Mrs. Berniece Fossum of West Covina, who was also present. They have four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Manor is retired from Ford Implement Co., Des Moines.

Limit roller use for hair health

Limiting the use of electric rollers or curling irons to no more than three times a week improves hair shine.

Don't overpermanent or overcolor your hair. (A perm three times a year is the limit. A professional colorist can guide you in now frequently your particular hair should be colored.)

Rinse your hair thoroughly to get every last bit of shampoo out. Leaving a shampoo film will dull it. Use the right shampoo for your hair type.

Finish each shampoo with a cold water rinse. It makes the cuticle lie flat and tight and thus reflect more light. If you have the sort of dark blonde or light brown hair that doesn't seem to reflect much light, you might consider having it highlighted by a good colorist. This will add a subtle glow.

If your hair is long, condition the ends every couple of weeks to compensate for the fact that your natural oils don't usually reach the very ends of your hair.

If your hair is very oily and doesn't shine the day after you shampoo, consider getting the simplest no-set cut so you can wash it every other day without feeling you're spending your life on your hair.

Have regular trims to keep the ends in good condition. It will improve the overall health of your hair and give it more shine.

Condition your hair regularly. Every three to four weeks is about right.

Palomar Mountain campsite dedicated

Several hundred supporters of Girl Scouting were on hand recently to witness the threefold dedication of the campsite at Palomar Mountain, San Diego County, the completion of the first troop building and the dedication of the flag pole donated by the Auxiliary to the National Organization of the Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War.

Mrs. Jody Berscheidt, program services director of Spanish Trails Council, acted as mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Loren Robinson, Patriotic Instructor of California and the Pacific Departments, Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, presented a 5' X 8' flag as the "official" Palomar flag. Lisa Conrad, president of the Senior Girl Scout planning board, accepted the flag on behalf of the council. This was followed by Mrs. Beatrice Riggs, Past National President, National Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, dedicating the flag pole that has been donated by National Auxiliary to Spanish Trails Council. Covina Cadette Troop 385, under the leadership of Mrs. Jan Weller, presented an impressive flag ceremony, presenting replicas of each American flag created and flown since 1776, and, as a finale, raising the newly dedicated official Palomar flag.

Four wishes for Palomar were presented by Whittier Girl Scouts Katrina Heller of Troop 720, Julie Heller from Troop 466, Shana Storey of Troop 105, coordinated by Mrs. Margaret Jensen, council board member. These wishes, along with other memorabilia, were sealed within a bicentennial container and buried at the base of the flag pole to be unearthed in 100 years.

Special recognitions were given Paul Emery, Pico Rivera, who has devoted many years as chairman of the Palomar Committee. Additional recognitions given were to the National Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War for the flag pole; SeaBee Detachment 00116, RNMCB 16, Pomona, for constructing the first winterized troop building, as well as members of 282 Engineering Company Water Supply Division of the 63rd U.S. Army Reserve Command, San Diego, for water system plans; to Navy Lt. Lawrence Otsubo, a newly created plaque on behalf of the SeaBee Detachment; to Mrs. Beatrice Riggs and Mrs. Loren Robinson, plaques on behalf of the National Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

The dedication closed with an inspirational ceremony given by Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from Hacienda Heights and coordinated by Mrs. Katie Jiminez.

CB upswing

The biggest entry in communications since the telephone — citizens band radio (CB) — got its origins in 1945, when the FCC set aside a radio band for ordinary citizens. The oil embargo, which lowered speed limits, gave CB its biggest impetus as truck drivers installed the sets to keep clear of highway radar units. Then CB hit the fancy of the general public in a big way, reports Reader's Digest; some eight to ten million CB sets will be sold in 1976.

'A Matter of Gravity'

Katharine Hepburn stars in comedy

An actress of enormous talent, charm and vitality, Katharine Hepburn has invested herself in a flighty English comedy that neither challenges nor rewards her in "A Matter of Gravity" which bowed Wednesday at the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center.

The play is a sort of drawingroom comedy conjured up by British author-playwright Enid Bagnold, a writer of some distinction ("Serena Blandish," "National Velvet," "The Chalk Garden" and others). Here she offers an English country house party peopled by unlikely souls doing improbable things. It is in effect little more than a star turn for Miss Hepburn, who displays her customary style and versatility with leanings toward the Mad Woman of Chaillot.

For those who haven't seen la belle Hepburn since "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" or "The Lion in Winter" or "Rooster Cogburn," rest assured that she is still the bright, beautiful lady of your dreams. In "Matter" she leans on a cane and sits down a lot, but she is still the sweet bird of youth, nasal, intense and charismatic.

We find her as a high-spirited, strong-willed elderly female living in a decaying English mansion, for which she has been offered 240,000 pounds. A good price, but where would she live? "London," she remarks, "is so up-to-date about nothing."

Gathering at the auld manse are Nicky (Richard Kelton), grandson of Mrs. Basil (Miss Hepburn), a bright, sensitive character with charm and great stage presence; Shadov (Paddy Croft), a waspish virago who overplays her part; Elizabeth (Wanda Bimson), a strident but alluring young lady, and Herbert (Paul Harding), a suave man with a nice sense of the comedic. Charlotte Jones as Miss Hepburn's piratical maid-of-all-work, gives a robust characterization, and Gary Tomlin's Tom is suitably muscular and agonized.

"A Matter of Gravity" is not really. The play is warm and moderately witty, with some splendid insights into its characters, but it won't be everybody's cup of tea.

Ben Edwards' settings are superbly tacky and gracious, and Thomas Skelton provides artistic lighting throughout. Noel Williams directs the comedy with power and imagination.

The Center Theater Group production runs through Dec. 4.

LABOR PROBLEM — "I've been lumbered," moans Whitney Rydbeck when he learns that his wife, Amy Sheridan, is pregnant again. The scene is from the musical, "Stop the World, I Want To Get Off," opening at the Claremont Playhouse at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Prague group at Ambassador

The Musica da Camera, Prague chamber music ensemble, will present a concert at the Ambassador Auditorium, Pasadena, at 8:30 tonight.

Considered one of Europe's finest interpreters of the Baroque repertoire, the Musica da Camera artists have added a special attractiveness to their programming by using concert tours to unearth numerous Baroque works in monasteries, libraries and archives. The program will include Lully's Suite in C Major; Handel's Chamber Trio No. 1 in B Major; Mozart's Quartet in D Major and Quartet in A Major; Vivaldi's Concerto in G Minor and J.C. Bach's Quintet in C Major, No. 1.

Musica da Camera's musicians are Josef Brabec, viola; Jaroslav Jositko, flute; Josef Kolar, cello; Miroslav Lastovka, violin; Jaroslav Prikryl, harpsichord, and Pavel Verner, oboe. In seven years, these musicians have become known for their technical perfection and sophisticated expression and style, and for giving what a Salzburg, Austria, critic called "a perfect and mature performance."

Tickets for this performance are: $8.50, $7.50 and $6.50. The Ambassador box office is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

The concert is presented by the Ambassador International Cultural Foundation and sponsored by Ambassador College in conjunction with its department of music and art.

Stigwood signs up Travolta

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Robert Stigwood has announced signing of Travolta to a three-picture contract which will begin with "Tribal Rights of the New Saturday night."

John Avildson will direct the film, based on a New York magazine story.

Travolta starred on Broadway in "Grease" and now plays Vinnie Barbarino on the TV series, "Welcome Back, Kotter."

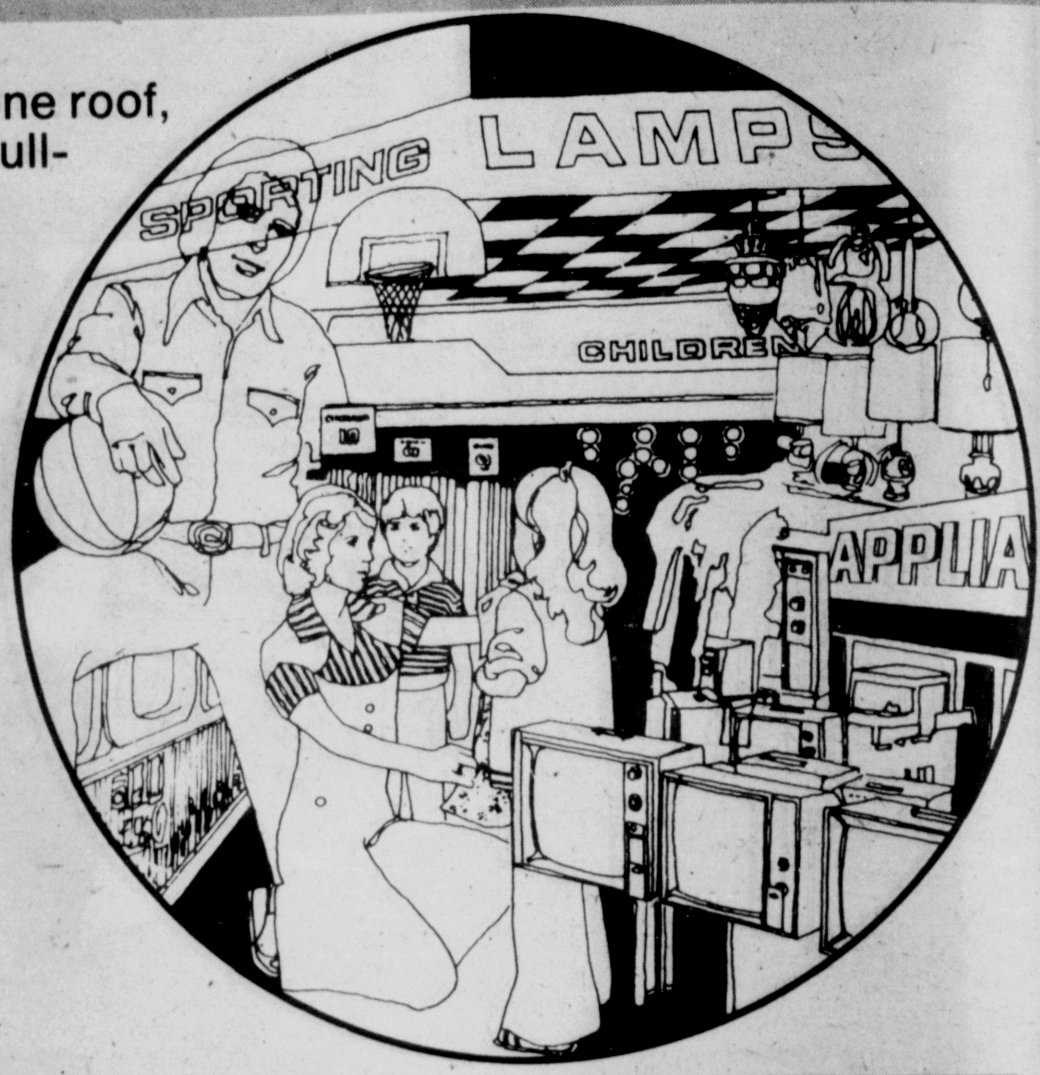
The Inside Story

29 Different "stores" inside Gemco

And the price makes the difference in all of them. Conveniently assembled under one roof, you'll find a modern supermarket, plus a full-service department store...both offering everything you need at "Inside" low prices, everyday. You choose from top-ranking nationally advertised brands in all departments, and get the products you prefer at Gemco savings. Savings that are made possible by the tremendous buying power, lower advertising costs, highly efficient operating methods, and minimum losses from bad checks. Yes, low everyday prices and huge selection...that's the "Inside" way of doing business at Gemco.



Womens Fashions

Our buyers in California and New York find the fads and fashions...the classics old and new, in lingerie and loungewear, in coats, dresses and sportswear. With fine quality labels, and in all the colors of the season. And all at the lowest prices in town.

Mens Fashions

Sports jackets in the latest styles and cuts, dress slacks, sweaters, jackets, sports shirts and dress shirts, hosiery and accessories. In short, men's up-to-the-minute fashions at down to earth savings.

Childrens Fashions

If you read about it in "Parent", you're likely to find it at Gemco! Names that stand for dependability and quality in furniture and fashions are our mainstays in both the children's and the infants areas. At prices so low, you won't mind when the kids outgrow their gear.

Family Shoes

Ladies' and misses will find styles crafted by nationally famous Revette. Men's dress shoes, casual, work shoes and boots, as well as children's shoes...all at Gemco's low prices, each and every day.

Jewelry

A complete selection of exquisite diamond rings and other precious jewelry makes gift shopping easy at Gemco. There's a handsome selection of cameras, radios, luggage and more "Inside" Gemco. At "Inside" Gemco prices.

Domestics

Famous name sheets and pillowcases, even king and queen sizes! Table linens, blankets, towels, bedspreads, bath ensembles, and area rugs, curtains, draperies and drapery hardware. A decorator's dream come true, at low everyday prices.

Cosmetics

Major brands you've seen in all the fashion magazines: Faberge, Max Factor, Helena Rubinstein, Jovan, Jean Nate', Love ... at prices less than the so called "fashion" department stores.

Major Appliances

Famous brands like Zenith, General Electric, Panasonic, RCA, Whirlpool, Kitchen Aid, Maytag. Delivered and installed by factory trained experts. And all at "Inside" prices...Gemco low everyday prices. So you get a good deal everyday! Ask about our extended protection plan.

Sporting Goods

For the family game room, for a hunting or fishing trip, for a day on the golf course, or for outfitting an entire league team...all the supplies and equipment in all the most famous names. And the prices are low and inside, everyday, when you're "Inside" Gemco.

Hardware & Paint

A full line of tools, hardware and handyman accessories will help you to do it yourself and get the job done for less. Finish the job with a good coat of paint from our selection, and all the accessories for decorating.

Housewares & Variety

Toys and games, open stock china , glassware, records and greeting cards. And the prices? Strictly Gemco, strictly "Inside" low everyday prices. There's the areas largest selection of small appliances, fine colonial wood decor, paintings, lamps and mirrors.

Patio & Garden

Decorator pots and planters for your greenery, fine patio furniture, barbecues, power edgers and mowers, even small garden tools...all are planned for convenience and comfort, at Gemco low everyday prices.

Automotive & Gas

Everyday low prices in a choice of octanes from major brands, that's the kind of gasoline you can expect from our gas station. Cutting the cost of auto upkeep with low, low prices on a large selection of quality merchandise thats what you can expect from our Auto Accessories Department.

Plus More

- Watch Repair - expert repairmen do the job.
- Snack Bar - sandwiches, pie, cola, coffee.
- Pharmacy - full service, even prescriptions at every day low prices.
- Liquor - a large selection of domestic and foreign labels.

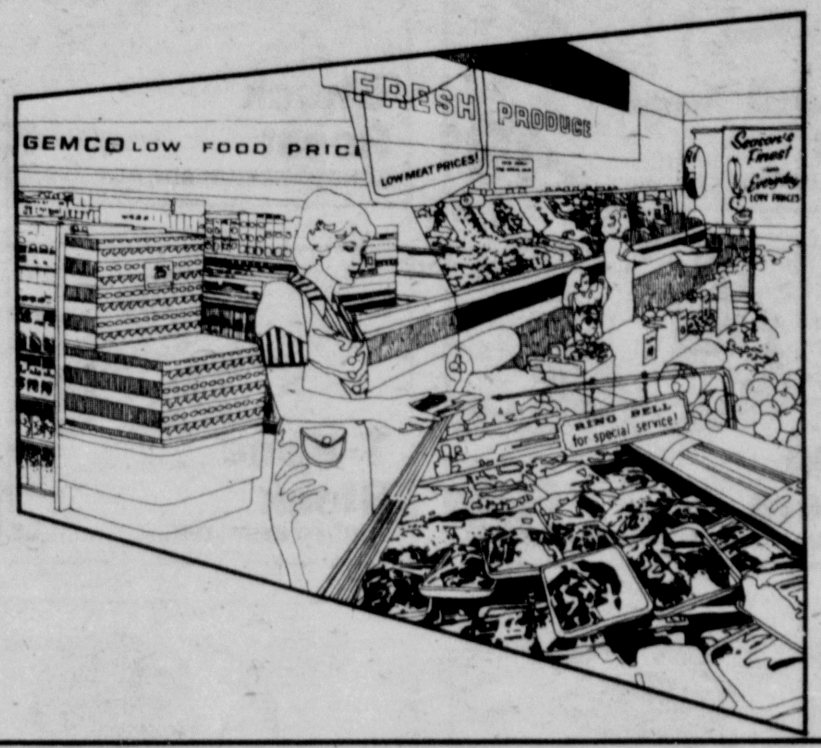
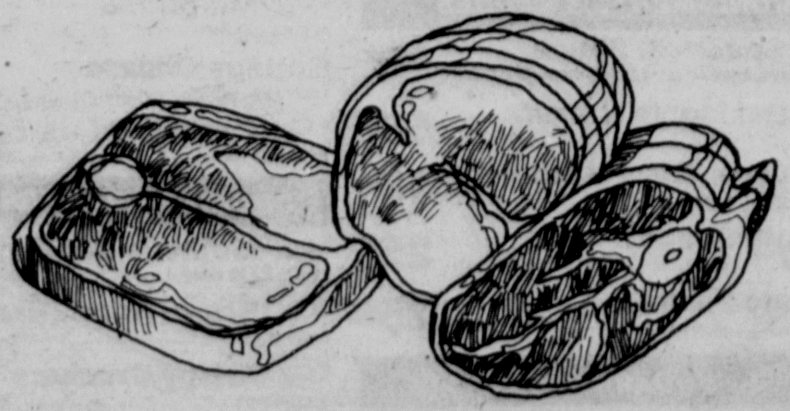
The inside story on low food prices

When you join Gemco, you're joining a supermarket that works hard to give you a lower total on your entire shopping list. Our buyers are constantly working to make the best out of a very competitive marketplace. They have the ability to move quickly, and they have the enormous buying power that comes from buying for 4 million members. Gemco offers no specials, no gimmicks, no games, no prizes. Except the biggest prize of all to a family who cares what they spend at the supermarket...the prize of a lower overall total food bill. Join Gemco. Shop "Inside" Gemco. Compare!

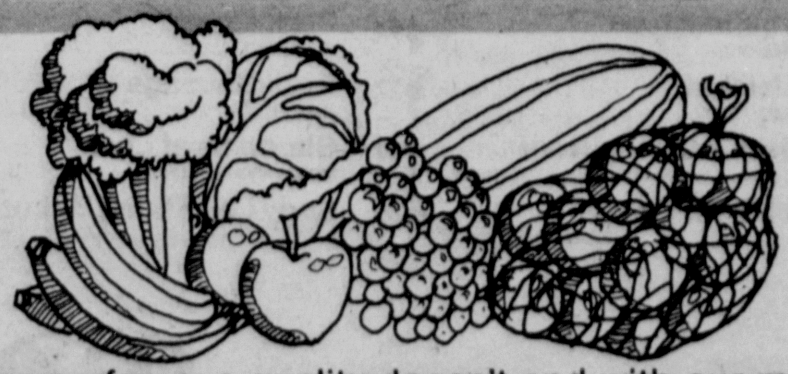


The inside story on meats guaranteed for flavor.



Sure, Gemco meats are low in price, but what's equally important is that our meats are guaranteed for flavor. Each cut has Gemco's own exclusive "Bond"...your guarantee of tender, lean, juicy cuts or your money back. When you purchase meat from Gemco, you're assured of receiving the best in meat value...and we guarantee that!

Produce guaranteed for freshness.



Gemco famous quality doesn't end with our meat, it continues throughout the entire store, especially in our Produce Department.Gemco members enjoy only the finest, freshest, just picked produce. You know it when you see it in our store...not picked too early, not too ripe, but right at its flavor peak. Feshness delivered to our stores in most cases just hours from the fields. You can always depend on Gemco for the finest, freshest produce available...and we guarantee it.

We're out to give you the lowest food prices in town.

The items and prices on the display board at the entrance to the supermarket are the results of the close watch our buyers keep on the marketplace. Often, on just a moments notice, our buyers may reduce prices to below what's been advertised for the week. The best of these reductions, sometimes seasonal best buys, sometimes a good buy in the competitive marketplace, are posted on this display board. Add these items to your shopping list. When you compare totals with other supermarkets, you'll come out even better. Check this price display everytime you shop at Gemco. It's one more way of showing you we're out to give you the lowest prices in town.

An Inside Privilege

Cart-to-car service

One of the many conveniences of shopping at Gemco: that's Cart-to-car service. It's a service specially developed for members who purchase big bulky packages...like groceries, for instance. Just ask the checker or bag boy for your Cart-to-car ticket. They'll tag your groceries and store them in our Pick-Up Area, and explain where to drive to pick up your groceries at your convenience. Then go about your other errands in the store. Have a snack. Buy some jeans. Check our prices on the new color television. When you're ready to leave, just go directly to your car. Simply, drive it around to the Cart Pick-Up Area and give your ticket to someone waiting. They will load your purchases in your car for you. You return home with your errands completed, and with energy to spare. Package sitting...package loading...proving members enjoy more than just low prices inside Gemco.
